THAT the alumni may have a better realization of the development of the Medical College of Virginia, that the faculty and students may have a graphic reminder of their College activities, and that all may be brought into a closer association—this book was conceived.

If anything of virtue, if aught of reminiscence, if anything of treasured memory is embodied in this thirteenth volume of the X-Ray, let that be the reward of those who have labored for its successful completion.

“Our finest hope is finest memory.” The hope of us who close this work is that the contents of this volume will furnish in the years that are to come the food for the finest memory.

John Wilkins Broadnax

Ph.G., M.D.

Artist, Anatomist, Teacher, who for thirty-three years has upheld, often without pecuniary reward, the standard of advance in the Medical College of Virginia; impressing his high character and rectitude upon all who have approached him, enforcing the ethical criteria of the profession more by example than by precept, and constantly striving for the best interests of the institution and his pupils, this work is affectionately dedicated by the thirty-third graduating class which has benefitted by his instruction.
JOHN WILKINS BROADNAX
Ph.G., M.D.
Simple in youth but not austere in age,
Calm but not cold, and cheerful though a sage;
Too true to flatter and too kind to sneer
And only just when seemingly severe.
So gently blending courtesy and art,
That wisdom's lips seemed borrowing friendship's heart;
Taught by the sorrow that his age had known,
In others' trials he forgot his own.

Sketch of the History of the Medical College of Virginia

The present Medical College of Virginia is the outgrowth of the medical department of Hampden-Sidney College. In 1835, that time honored institution established a medical department in Richmond. The old Union Hotel at Nineteenth and Main streets was the first hospital and school building.

Due to a sacrificing and energetic faculty, the Medical College at Richmond, as it was called, made splendid progress. In 1844 the General Assembly of Virginia loaned, upon security of the faculty, sufficient money from the Literary Fund to erect the fine specimen of Egyptian style architecture building that now stands at the corner of Thirteenth and Marshall streets.

During the next ten years, difference arose between the faculty of the Medical Department at Richmond and the Trustees of Hampden-Sidney College. Separation became necessary. In 1854 the connection with Hampden-Sidney was severed. By the act of the Legislature, the institution became the Medical College of Virginia. From that time on, it has been a corporation under State control and governed by a board of visitors, appointed by the Governor.

In 1859-60 came one of the most familiar incidents in the history of the college. Disgusted with the attitude of Philadelphia and the incidents leading up to Brown's Raid at Harper's Ferry, the group of medical students, known as the "Philadelphia Seceders," led by Hunter McGuire, came to the Medical College of Virginia. There were two hundred and fifty-nine of them. They received a great reception in Richmond. This sudden increase in the enrollment furnished the basis on which the college received an additional appropriation from the State Legislature.

Then came the days of 1861-65. The Medical College of Virginia was the only medical college in the South to maintain its course of medical instruction during the entire war. It is also worthy of note that the professors, students and alumni of this institution cared for the greater number of sick and wounded who were confined to Richmond during those arduous days. It is estimated that at times there must have been as many as 40,000 patients within the city.

Dr. Douglas Freeman said, "If this old college had nothing else to which to claim title, there would be a laurel of fame for it and there should be a lasting place for it among the great medical schools of this country for the manner in which it met in the sixties the overwhelming task of caring for the sick and wounded."

In 1879 the General Assembly of Virginia gave the faculty the right to confer the degree of "Graduate in Pharmacy" upon such candidates as "having attended two full courses of lectures in materia medica, therapeutics, and in chemistry and pharmacy, and having been thoroughly examined by them and compiled with such regulations as may be adopted by the faculty, shall be deemed worthy of that distinction.”

In 1897-98 a division of the college was made into three parts—Medicine, Denistry and Pharmacy.

The consolidation of the Medical College of Virginia and the University College of Medicine was effected in 1913. And in 1914 the Charlotte Medical College became a part of the Medical College of Virginia.

In the recent war the alumni of this school took an active part. Many of the graduates served with distinction. A base hospital unit and an ambulance corps went out from here. Both saw active service in France.

In this brief outline, nothing has been said of the effect that this medical college has had on the medical education generally and especially in the South. We are assured that it has not been without great influence. We have said nothing of the development of the School of Nursing. This would constitute an interesting chapter.

We have touched upon the part the alumni of the Medical College of Virginia have played in times of war. We have said nothing of their services in times of peace. We are led to believe that this would constitute the greatest and most satisfactory chapter.

We present you with this brief sketch for what it is worth. May it inspire someone to write a real history of this historical institution.

The Million Dollar Campaign

In February 23, 1926, at ten o'clock, the campaign to raise for the Medical College of Virginia a million dollars for endowment and buildings was formally launched at student assembly. When the plan had been laid before the students by the president and deans of the college, there was an immediate response. Class teams were appointed and the work of securing pledges to the campaign was on.

The student body entered into the spirit of the movement in a way which perhaps surprised even the students themselves. Day after day the total of the pledges mounted until practically every student within the college was pledged, the final sum from the students running beyond forty thousand dollars.

Simultaneous with the student campaign the work of soliciting the faculty began. Here, too, the response was fine, with every hope as the X-Ray goes to press of securing from faculty and students considerably more than a hundred thousand dollars.

Following the campus campaign the alumni and friends outside of Richmond will be solicited personally. When this effort has been concluded the campaign will come back to Richmond to be closed in the community where the college has been operating for nearly a century.

While a million dollars is a large sum, those who have planned the campaign so carefully believe that if the public generally receives the purposes of the campaign in anything like the spirit of the campus, its objectives will be fully reached. They are: Approximately $350,000 for a new teaching unit; $125,000 for a nurses home and women’s dormitory; $400,000 endowment for whole-time clinical service; $65,000 for general endowment; $50,000 for library endowment, and $10,000 for a student loan fund.

It is fully expected that if the million dollars can be raised it will attract other gifts to the institution, thus making possible an increasingly influential and useful professional college with schools of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and nursing.

Senior Class History

As we stand for the last time on the threshold of our Alma Mater let us pause for a moment and gaze back over those short and happy years that have intervened since first we gathered here. Fired then with a boundless enthusiasm that has at times been sadly discouraged—bent, broken but never beaten—we have carried on; and as a reward we face today our great Tomorrow.

Four years ago we took the fatal step and "burned our bridges behind us." Then running full tilt into "Uncle Billie" we rather regretted our hasty act of incendiarism, but later we felt justified for we had passed on intact to learn of laboratory technique from "Lizzie"—and truly "Lizzie" was a lesson himself. Next "Ostie" taught our remarkable resemblance to a pig embryo; and of the gentle art of gazing "over a whitewashed fence." While Gustave struggled vainly to show us the errors of our ways and to guide us into the Minnesota paths.

"Ward H." did not seem to appreciate the fact that we were all potential MacCallums, Mallory, and Ewings; and we sustained a few temporary casualties. Then "Ostie" took us in hand again and explained our convulsive reactions to an auto horn while he mentally "ate his hat." He survived. "Brodie" showed us that youth is periodical, and that human (female) form is really divine; which facts were later confirmed by "Dr. Joe White of America" following a prolonged stay in gay Paree. While "Charlie" inspired a sudden interest in study; and explained the benefits of the Age of Prohibition.

About this time we began to suspect that there were few things that we did not know—later this was verified.

A third September rolled around and reinforced by our annual quota from Wake Forest and West Virginia plus our returned "soldiers" from Carlisle we plunged once more into the fray. Now we learned of many marvelous and "extraordinary" cases from "Call 'er roll please," while G. Paul demonstrated the efficacy of aqua internally, externally, and eternally—the modern fountain of youth. Then we were introduced to infants who walked erect and ate toast like men, while their sisters and brothers climbed trees on lactic acid stimulation. "Greer" and his cohorts initiated us in to the mysteries of life, where here we met little Johnnies and Marys in their Grand Debut. And with "Carnett" we used every known method of study to keep our percentage mistakes as low as possible.

Then "Rosier" taught us a great surprise that alcohol is not essential to the well-being of a medical student; so we became "ardent" prohibitionists. And so we entered our Senior year, sadder but wiser.

Entering this our final year with much elation, yet with a ring of sadness that our happy associations were soon to be severed, we renewed afresh our teachings and learning of last year. Now our work was largely hospital and we quickly learned that the antiparum use of the title "Doctor" is premature; but all in all, our efforts must have been creditable for we received many notes from "T. P. H." relative to the merits of our sticking and boiling (?) operations. We also added many new facts to our store of knowledge; prominent which were, that most human ailments may be traced to an origin in achylia gastrica, and that abdominal tumors may so often be pregnant. And twas this year that we found that the proverbial needle in the haystack was such an easy find compared to the discovery of a proper professor in the proper place at a proper time. Verily we became mind readers! But with the fun to one side—we have taught but praise and the utmost admiration for our excellent faculty, and in all humility we subscribe ourselves their most grateful friends and proteges.

We have now come to the parting of the ways, to embark—each of us—upon the Great Adventure; striving always to conquer lands unknown with our eyes turned to the last frontiers of our profession. But in these busy years to come let us never forget our happy student days; let us never lose touch with our friends of old; and our little service to mankind be such that our Alma Mater will always be proud to acclaim us as her sons.

"Keep us, O Theis, in our Western flight!
Watch us from thy pearly throne
Our vessel plunging deeper into night
To reach a land unknown."

HISTORIAN.
"ONLY A DREAM"
Charles C. Haskell

We are confronted with a man who has broken the cocoon of his infancy and has stepped into the realms of science and truth with the dignity of an Ichabod Crane. A slender youth with a number twelve that carries his lanky frame to and fro from the assembly of his fellow colleagues. His first appearance to us was: a youth born with ambition—a lanky country youth whose experience with the vacca was one of intricate knowledge.

He is a faithful friend to his fellow students—willing to advise and assist and to give of the knowledge that he obtained from his years behind the four-legged ass and plow-share.

He has stuck with us through these years of arduous work and sacrifice and as the fourth milestone appears in the distance Charlie will be seen among the “A’s” instead of among the “C’s” of the alphabet.

Charles C. Haskell, M.D.

In 1913 Dr. Haskell came to the Medical College of Virginia, took charge of the laboratory instruction in Pharmacology and in spite of the handicaps of inadequate quarters and very meagre apparatus, he at once had one of the most interesting and instructive courses in the curriculum. Each succeeding year has seen greater progress in his department and through his persistent and courageous efforts the department of Pharmacology has developed into one of the best from the standpoint of physical equipment and, more important, it has come to occupy the place of highest esteem among the faculty and students. In addition to Pharmacology he has gradually assumed charge of the work in Physiology in all three schools and at present gives the students of these subjects a much dreaded, strenuous, pleasant, instructive and memorable year’s work.

In addition to his didactic work he has found time somewhere to do quite a lot of painstaking and scientifically accurate research work, a type of research work particularly notable for courageous search for the truth rather than a desire for fame on the part of the investigator.

More important than all else has been his never-failing desire and remarkable ability to teach his students to act straight, to think straight and to demand reasonable proof for scientific deductions.

"Dick," known also to us as "Lead" or "Fee-Fee," is one of the smallest of our group; but only in stature is he small, for never have we seen a bigger heart in any individual. This is a case where quantity is not able to keep up with quality. "Dick" is reserved; is a real genuine friend and classmate; possesses an ardent disposition; is talented along musical lines and is able to charm the best of us with his snappy songs accompanied by his guitar. "Fee-Fee" is a well-rounded chap, full of the very best qualities that go to make a gentleman. Here's success to you, old pal!

Guy, better known as "Frog," has made good at M. C. V., and has made many friends among both sexes. His acquaintance with one of the opposite sex has probably won for him a life-time mate. "Frog" does not dissipate to any marked degree. His worst habits are drinking lemonade on Saturday nights and eating mints. We hope he will overcome these bad habits. Surely the future holds only success for him, because he is a conqueror of obstacles.

Theta Chi, Phi Chi

Hampden-Sidney College; Vanderbilt University; University of Virginia.

Don't be misled by a debonair countenance, for Lewis has a remarkable record of achievements, both military and collegiate. Following eighteen months of war in Flanders he made the decision that the highest road to service lay by way of M. C. V., and during four subsequent years he has met victory in science and hearts.

Not satisfied by mere degree requirements during these four years, he has laid an enviable foundation as a dermatologist.

Among faculty and students his charm attracts friends, and his loyalty holds them.

We confidently predict eminent conquests for this "Student Prince" of M. C. V.

"Love at any subsequent price, is the only thing that repays the heavy price of existence."

Herman, one of the Bailey twins, has spent four strenuous years with us. He has taken a prominent part in school activities, especially athletics, and here he has excelled all his predecessors.

Herman has an individualistic character and to know him well is to like him well. Among his noteworthy traits are his ideals, his sincerity, his pleasing personality. These, with others too numerous to mention, go to make an honest-to-goodness man.

Socially and among the fairer sex, Herman is ranked as a true Beau Brummel.

We wish Herman the success that is due him.

The Class of '26 would never have stood the strain of four long years without Reggie. His unfailing good humor is ever mirrored in his cheery smile and hearty greeting.

Being quite irresistible to women, Reggie has had to fight hard against the demon Matrimony, but so far has successfully eluded the desperate pursuit of many fair and hopeful damsels.

Seriously speaking, Reggie has all the traits of an ideal physician—those qualities which encourage others to trust themselves without hesitation to his care; and the mature reasoning and sound judgment to make their confidence well placed.

"Jake," as he is known to most of us, hails from old Accomac on the Eastern Shore, where God made potatoes and MEN. Through the stirring days of Anatomy and the fierce battles of "Uncle Charlie," "Jake" has stuck with us and has always fired accurately, even in the hottest sectors.

His ability in his professional work is unquestioned. His steadfastness and dependability as a friend have been tried and proven.

We part, hoping that "Jake" will find unlimited success in his chosen work and much happiness, crowned by the love and respect of the "Only Girl in the World."

F. Clyde is known too well by all of our number to have to be introduced at this late hour. The story of the "Bear Tracks" and "Bunny-Bunny" is as familiar as F. Clyde's smiles and questions—and nothing here can be added.
We do wish to say that we hope he gets a good axe, as he is going to chop his way back to Galax in June. "Birdseed" is also a church worker and a sheik. Luck be with you and the wishes of '26.

Bennett, though one of our new comers, for the past two years has been one of our associates. His quiet, retiring manner has prevented our becoming well acquainted with him personally, but we do know him to be a good student. He had some rough roads to travel, but so did the rest of us. Bennett has an attractive personality and we know that he must have many friends.
May you have a wonderful future, and may you ever be one of the staunchest and truest boosters of old M. C. V.

Here is one who will ever be in the memory of the Class of '26. "Daniel" has stood "Ace High" in his work, both in class and clinic, during his stay here, which leaves us without doubt as to his ability to insure success. Here's to your success as a physician, old boy, and we are looking for you to uphold the high standard of life that you did at M. C. V.

Behold, World, the “vera effigie” of Richard Alfred Bowen the Second, our Honor Council Man; student, scientist, man of letters, bibliophile, stoic with flashes of epicurianism, and one of the finest specimens of “homo sapiens” that ever was.
Dick’s tremendous amount of information and his love for debating, get him often into arguments—subjects ranging from “Relativity” to “what the well-dressed young man will wear this fall.”
His conscientious knowledge, impressing personality, undeniable good looks, and aristocratic ways will lead him to a brilliant career.
(While we type these lines, we picture Dick reading them over and exclaiming his characteristical: “BOLONEY!”)

A gentleman, a scholar, a judge of good liquor, a good looking man, are a few of the attributes of this lad.
He possesses the fortunate ability of quickly acquiring knowledge and stowing it away in such a manner as to be readily available for immediate use, consequently, he has made an enviable record and ranks among the best of his class.
His success is not limited to his profession, for his "happy-go-lucky" manner and jovial smile make him a favorite among the ladies and popular with those who know him. To such a man success is assured.
Orman Crawford Campbell

This light-haired gentleman from the wilds of West Virginia has long since proven one of the finest and most likable fellows ever to enter the doors of M. C. V. His winning smile is oft' times blurred by a serious look, and we wonder if it's over some fair maiden. His success is due to his earnest zeal and strict attention to duty. "Keg" has made for himself quite a name; and he is the kind of person who is not easily forgotten. We understand that he has ever cherished a desire to open a chain of "Ranches" out in the wilds of West Virginia. The Class of '26 wishes him much luck.

Scanning his achievements, the reader may easily catalogue the young man. He began making friends in his first year and they have increased constantly in the succeeding years. No doubt exists in our minds that he will continue on through life easily making friends, as in the past.

George is, at present, a pillar of the Retreat for the Sick Hospital, and in years to come, even the Mayos had best look to their laurels.

From the hills of West Virginia this youngster came, witty, intelligent and able. His stay has been a pleasant one. A hard worker, but not a drudge, he has not neglected the social side of College life, and has endeared himself to the hearts of many a Richmond flapper, who sorrowfully sees him go to other fields where his future patients will welcome him with confidence in his ability to help them, even as we, who have never been disappointed in our expectations of his doing good work. We hate to lose him, but wish him the best of success.

He has been here four years, and during that time has proven himself to be a hard working student, a conscientious friend and an athlete of no mean wrestling ability.

Many nick-names have been given him, all of which are sympathetic, rather than antagonistic. This is a good indication of his popularity and general geniality, for he abounds in both. Our memories of Stubbs, and our associations together, will always be happy reminiscences.

Davis is a great admirer of high-class vaudeville and movies, rarely ever missing a good one, but regardless of this his ranking is among the highest in our class. He is frequently consulted by students when there are medical issues involved of which they are doubtful, and his studious activities have won for him the admiration of the entire class.

J. Frank is another product of the hills of West Virginia, and one of which they may justly be proud. During the four years he has been with us he has distinguished himself by his quiet, gentlemanly attitude as a scholar; and we have learned to look for his good natured smile as one of our daily routines. Though his apparent indifference to the ladies has deceived many, most of us know him as "Our Little Sheik," and understand his heavy handicap of there being only seven nights in a week. It is a strict secret to all outsiders, but we believe that Harry is contemplating matrimony.

The city of Richmond contributed Berkley, and that city may well be proud. For when one begins to analyze the unassailable character of its representative, one finds one who is deliberate yet modest, sure of himself yet never assertive, living today for today yet constantly storing up knowledge for the future. Kind, sympathetic, just, a most excellent student and, above all, a man.
Could more be said of anyone?

"Speed" Gray, so called because his deliberate movements were at first mistaken for a lack of speed. A mistake this was! Few members of the class have accomplished more in the same time. Student of the first rank and member of the teaching staff at the same time—scientific investigator, musician—all these with plenty of time left for making hosts of friends. All this without apparent haste, noise or misdirected efforts, and yet these could not have been accomplished without the genuine type of speed which Ed possesses—the type which gets somewhere in a short time. Honest, level headed, mature—a loyal friend, an excellent student, a clean-cut gentleman—this is Ed Gray.

Bill is not known so very well to some of us, because of his retiring way, but those of us who have the privilege of knowing him, know him as a staunch, true friend and classmate; always ready to serve, especially where service is needed, and always ready to work when work must be done. Bill has a build which is somewhat descriptive of his nature—big, wholehearted and sincere—and of course a fat person is always jolly.

It is not necessary to wish Bill success. He has already begun to leave some of us 'way in the background. Anyway, we'll say, "Luck to you."

Quite some time ago our friend Max had the desire and ambition to become an M.D. He had, however, to diverge in other lines. Art was all right and his friends made a business of it, but Max thought it a good hobby. Teaching at school was lots of fun, but not if one has other views in mind. It was "great stuff" to be the boys' friends at camp, and so he was during his summer "vacation." Finally, he got the opportunity to undertake a study that would be of benefit to all. Hard and conscientious work has been his motto. We all hope that he will be successful in his chosen career.

Four years is a long time to be associated with some people, but not so with Lewis, who came to us from the University of Virginia with the idea of doing his best, which he has thoroughly demonstrated on all occasions.

Lewis is a man known to be "set in his ways" and very unapt to deviate from his point of view ('tho' he has been known to "match for a penny—the best two out of three').

His friends are numerous, and his vices, which are well overbalanced by his virtues, few, so we feel sure he will make a name for himself worthy of his ability as a doctor.

This lanky Islander, although morphologically true to his pure Latin noble ancestry (we are sure that he has blue blood, a velvet-lined omentum and a coat of arms), is a hundred per cent American in thought and manners. A philosopher and admirer of art, he has of late greatly increased his knowledge of human nature, of which he is a student, especially one phase of it. His metaphysical soul was too deep for us at first, and we could not comprehend the full meaning of his lyric conversation. We thought he was merely "shooting the bull," a form of Spanish athletics. Later, however, as we fathomed something of his character, we feel sure that he will now return to his sunny island, a credit to his Alma Mater.

Here is our youngest graduate: Luis Morales—gentleman and scholar, versatile artist and composer; humorist; a violinist of note, and man of medicine; special extern in gastro-intestinal diseases, and consultant extraordinary in cases of Sprue.

Luis tells us that he landed from the "Enchanted Isle" with only a fiddle, one suit of clothes, and empty pockets, but determined to get a medical education. "Doctor Morales" now returns home, leaving behind innumerable friends and a widespread artistic fame, as testified by the crowds he has delighted with his Cremona, even over the radio.

Everyone joins in wishing him success in his chosen profession.

Here is another from the "North State." "Red" came to us from Oxford, via Davidson College. In spite of his fiery thatch, he is a quiet, unassuming lad who always finds pleasure in serving others and who is ever present whenever anyone desires information on the noble art of healing. "Red" passed through the four-year grind with all ease, and we predict that when he goes back to the waving pines they will welcome him with open arms.

B.A. Wake Forest College; Interne, Carolina General Hospital, Wilson, N. C.; North Carolina Club.
The state just to the south of us has again blessed us by sending to M. C. V. such a man as "Succie." His wonderful personality and winning smile will ever brighten the darkest gloom that sickness casts over some unfortunate soul. Nothing will deter him from the goal that lies just beyond the reach of ordinary man.

Many a fair maiden's heart suffers Auricular Fibrillation at the thought of this tall gentleman with the honest smile.

Wake Forest claimed Pearson for four years, but his last two have been with us; and we can well say "we have been blessed."

Ladies and gentlemen, the one and only Bruce, Doctor of Medicine, a Registered Pharmacist, and a Man of Letters (from Norfolk). Incidentally, he has a speaking acquaintance with all of the railroad men of Tidewater.
At his matriculation in September, 1922, Bruce was placed in the category of optimists, and he has in all four years faithfully maintained his original status. At his graduation in June, 1926, he is classified as one of the consistent students of our group. His ever present ability to see the silver lining plus the degree which he bears, leaves no doubt in our minds as to his career in the profession.
Our best wishes in all of your undertakings in the future, Bruce.

Friends, Romans, Countrymen! The delegate from Tidewater! "Rat" has sojourned in Richmond and Bowling Green for the past six years, and his friends in each metropolis are legion. Since his advent into our midst he has developed an inordinate craving for confections, his sole favorite being "The Patty."
This youthful disciple of Aesculapius is one of the most popular members of our class. Staunch in his friendships, conscientious in his work and consistent in his studies, "Rat" possesses a future which should know no limits; at least, we won't attempt to limit his achievements by a prophecy.

"Howdy, Partner!"

He hails from the shirt tail fork of Jinney's Creek, which joins the pearly waters of the Tug at Williamson, W. Va., Mingo County, to wit. Roy entered the Junior Class last year, after graduating at the West Virginia University with a B.S. degree.

Roy shows great ability as a student of medicine. Physical Diagnosis is his strong point and hobby. There is no doubt about him finding the trouble. He always finds plenty.

We all agree that Roy is a darn good sport, ambitious, and a true friend.

The Seniors

Maurice Rosenthal
Richmond, Va.

University of Richmond Club.

Maurice found Richmond sufficiently cosmopolitan to get all of his academic and his intensive scientific training here. His intelligence always over-balanced his faculty for overworking. This slight degree of indulgence can, however, be satisfactorily accounted for by the usual method. There was enough charming feminity to distract him a little from his work, but his innate intelligence more than compensated for this interesting distraction. During his senior year Maurice had a most opportune and splendid opportunity to pay St. Peter a visit. Maurice, however, was too pugnacious, and St. Peter refused him admittance. He is, therefore, back with us again, and we wish him all the luck in the world. We know he will make good.

"Joe" came to us from Princeton, West Virginia, a town long distinguished because of its proximity to Bluefield, after having had his first two years at Morgantown. We are very sorry that we did not have him for the whole course. He is far above the average where class work is concerned, and has recently become famous because of two things, namely: the mastery of D. and S., as evidenced by grades just posted, and because of his great contribution to science in advancing his theory as to the etiology of atrophy.

"Joe," we're betting on you, and if you continue throughout life as you have during your short stay with us you'll set a pace that few of us can follow.

He will uphold the standards of M. C. V. next year, probably in the "Tar Heel State," when he goes out as a doctor of great mentality, sound morals, and high ideals.

We wish you success in making your mark in life, Donnie. We are for you; you can't be stopped!

Marion Seawell, sometimes known as "Boy," is the very distinguished gentleman here pictured. (Note the hirsute adornment of the upper lip—that is for further subjugation of the so-called weaker sex). Never cramming as the rest of us do, but somehow capable of assimilating an amazing amount of information; always complaining of being broke, but nevertheless a member of the "Ford Brigade," Marion acquires knowledge and possessions without effort. It is practically impossible to follow the workings of the mind so agile as his.

Marion's future promises to be brilliant and some day we shall be proud to say, "We knew him when—"

Asa, better known as "Bev," is the Master Sheik of our class, and we must give him credit for being a rare judge of feminine charm, for whenever there is a German Club or fraternity dance he is nearly mobbed with the entreaties of less fortunate individuals who want to swap dances. Asa is a thorough student, a loyal friend, a true sport, and a perfect gentleman, consequently we predict for him a most brilliant success in every undertaking.

Jack is one of the celebrities of the Senior Class, and can be seen at any time walking down the hall with his perpetual smile on his face. If there ever was a real fellow, Jack is one, a loyal friend, an earnest student, and one whom will be surely missed. There is one thing, however, that Jack can top anyone in his class, and that is asking questions. To him we award the crown in this accomplishment. We have no fears of your success, Jack, and we all wish you the best of luck for the future.

This learned, handsome and innocent individual first saw the light of day on the banks of the Rappahannock. The years have passed rapidly, but Time has done his work well. Using the College of W. and M. as a steppingstone, J. B. entered M. C. V. with the rest of us in the fall of '22, and has maintained a position to be proud of. J. B.'s magnetic personality and his potent line have made him a host of friends, and his position with the ladies is undisputed. At times he throws off the mask of solemnity and turns his aspirations to the higher pursuits of Cupid's garden, and no Romeo ever basked so successfully beneath a balcony as this master of hearts. J. B. has the stuff and all the makings of a man, and in after years this school will be proud to point to him as a product of her teaching.

Burleigh Spahr is one of those quiet fellows who is ever at his post of duty with a smile. M. C. He has made innumerable friends, both among the students and patients. Those who know him best can appreciate his many admirable qualities. Spahr takes with him the best wishes of his many classmates. The community that chooses him will be worthy of its choice.

From a prominent northern city came Thomas to M. C. V. to study medicine in a southerly fashion. Instilled in him we have the spirit of honor and sincerity. A good energetic student and a pleasing personality are among his salient characteristics. Everyone feels benefited for having known such a man.

In the pursuit of his chosen vocation we feel no hesitancy in saying that he is deserving of highest confidence and will merit any privilege, assignment, or responsibilities given him.

With these words of profound honesty we bid him adieu—towards that goal of inevitable success.

Although born and bred in North Carolina, "Major" Townsend was not long in adjusting himself to our class. Always ready with a perpetual supply of cheer and laughter to brighten up the dullest times, he has endeared himself to the hearts of all.

Love them all, but don't lose your heart to any of them is "Major's" motto. Though noted as a ladies' man, he is a student of rare ability, always prompt in doing the duties assigned to him and consequently admired by all.

If Townsend has as many patients as he has nicknames and friends, success will be his.

LOUIS WACHTEL
BROOKLYN, N.Y.

Phi Delta Epsilon

Wachtel, the Osler, with a pseudo moustache, came to us four years ago to study medicine, although at the time we thought he was teaching dancing instead of delving into the mysteries of medicine.

Louis is everything that Osler ain't, but notwithstanding the handicap he has attained the heights of a Senior Medical Student.

As the cake-eater of the Medical School, he is it, and if he shows as much perseverance in his practice of medicine as he has shown in trying to raise the golden flax on his upper labia, we are sure that he will be a great success in the great city of New York.
Harry Walker
La Crosse, Va.
Phi Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon

Mecklenburg County is responsible for this product, and she should be proud of her offspring. Harry joined our class after having made an enviable pre-med record, and while with us he has continued to be a "twister." His classmates call him "Osler." He is not a bookworm, but possesses that inherent art of acquiring knowledge quickly and assimilating it for future reference.

He has had ample time for diversion, and he has spent it wisely—socially and otherwise. His manly qualities and affable disposition have caused many heartaches among the fairer sex, but "Osler" is still a free man.

A good student, a real man, and a true friend—we wish him well, and feel sure that success will be his.

R. R. Weathers

Weathers has failed to hand his little essay upon himself to the "X-Ray," so therefore we cannot do him up in the style we would like.

Weathers migrated from the wilds of Carolina to the shores of America and to M. C. Y. in the fall of '24. He evidently was well pleased with his change, as shown by his regard of the Old Dominion.

Weathers has been an asset to his class and to the school. He is an ideal student and a true friend. We are looking forward to seeing many signs of the rapid success that we predict for him.

Frank wandered in here from somewhere over in Southwest Virginia, but for several general reasons and a few particular ones, we think that he has decided to live in Richmond. We have only one thing against him: he nearly caused the downfall of a lot of us when we tried to be like him in making good grades without apparent effort, and at the same time never getting behind schedule on his social stuff. But really, he takes this doctor business seriously. We know he does, for he is going to prove it by his success at it, and that's our honest opinion of him.

EDWARD WILLIAM WOOD

William and Mary Club; Historian Senior Class.

Sir Edward Wood, son of his father, is the very distinguished knight in the picture you now see. His quiet and unassuming but winning manner has won him many friends. His abilities as a student are well demonstrated by the ease with which he gets high marks. His contributions to our newspaper have always been a source of enjoyment. Although his life here has been crowded with varied activities, he has kept his calm and modest ways unruffled. Thus we send Sir Edward forward and we know that sometime, somewhere, "Far from the maddening crowd," we shall hear great things of him.
Frank joined the ranks of the Class of '26 last year, after having graduated at the West Virginia University with a B.S. degree. A man of few words and a darn poor hand for foolishness. A very ambitious character, a good student, a dependable man, a true friend, and worthy of his name. All in all, a typical West Virginian.
To Old Chris

To thee, who mindless of the helpless dead,
    These crude, unpolished lines are for you penned;
Who'll daily sit in age, with hoary head,
    And scrape their bones, unthinking of your end.

While you pursue your ghastly, ghoulish trade,
    Does no compunction ever come to you?
That as these cadavers, you were made,
    And may have to receive this treatment, too.

Yet, let us in good feeling, you protect,
    And all have one kind word to say to you;
That the ghouls are the students, who dissect,
    And will give you this after task to do.

For science 'tis aimed, yet you get no part
    In what is gained, and they the honors bear;
In co-partnership, you share not their art,
    But day by day must sit and cut and pare.

Class History

Case: History, number 606.
Name: Junior Class of M. C. V.
Age: From morula mass to senility.
Occupation: Students pro tempore.
Married: About 20 per cent, the remainder-willing to be.
Nationality: Americans, Poles, Scandinavians, Armenians and Jews.
Family History: Members of the Genus Homo Sapiens, otherwise negative.
Sex: 100 per cent dominant male characteristics.

Past History: On September 12th, 1923, a heterogeneous aggregation of men collected before the doors of old M. C. V. with one common thought, which was to become followers of Hippocrates, Galen and Sir William Osler. We were initiated into the anatomy hall by receiving a box of bones and we were told to go to work, thus beginning our medical career. We worked faithfully under the care of Dr. Broady and the other instructors, so that after “checking up and recapitulating” Dr. Noback decided to pass the majority of the class. Mr. Wilkerson instructed us as to how sections of the cat’s ovary were made at Cornell. Mr. McCracken very promptly oriented the class in his “Lab.” so that we soon knew just what reagent was on shelf number 41, in the southwest corner of the room. From him we learned also, how to study and read the blackboard.

On our return the following Fall we were the sophisticated, allwise Sophomores and it was with a feeling of superiority that we looked down on the poor “Frosh.” But after being in Dr. Charlie’s classes, we soon knew that we had lots to learn. We did learn that the week-end started on Thursday, just when Dr. Charlie closed his roll book. Dr. Miller had many strange organisms for us to cultivate, attenuate, and agglutinate. Dr. Osterud taught us that much complicated nervous system was an essential part of our anatomy. It suffices to say that Dr. Phillips told us about the specificity of many diseases that affect the human body.

Present Illness: Dates back to our entrance to M. C. V. three years ago. During the present year we have received pilgrims from two foreign countries—West Virginia and North Carolina. Many of our flock are suffering from matrimony, many from alopecia and a few from griping, one from an incised wound of the apex, and one from mixed breech presentation. “Pop” tells us that he still loves us and will gather a crop of new dills at his first opportunity. With the addition of one new pair of glasses and one moustache, we now have two sets of identical twins.

Diagnosis: One good Junior Medical Class.

Differential Diagnosis: From Freshmen by the latter’s peculiar odor; from Sophomores by—loss of sophistication; from Seniors by—occasional persuals into medical literature.

Suggested Treatment: More work and less dills.

Prognosis: If we learn all about women from Dr. Michaux; about self protection from Dr. Whitfield; about the use of water from Dr. La Roque; about O. B. from Dr. Baughman; about achyilia gastrica from Dr. Vanderhoof; about the Anopheles Quadrimaculatus from Dr. Knott; about babies from Dr. Grinnan and Dr. Urbach; and many other things, we will probably some day be Doctors.

SOPHOMORE MEDS
Sophomore Class History

On September 17th, 1924, these embryo doctors started out. Being introduced rather abruptly to the science of osteology, we flatter ourselves that we were masters of the science—we knew that the femur was the longest bone in the body, since it was the only one that would not go in our Boston bugs. However, a few of "Cornell's Pop quizzes" and the "Diaphragm as a Working Mechanism" soon proved to our satisfaction that we were not past masters in the art and a few of our fellows were cut down.

Another poor boy lost his hard earned (dilled) when he attempted to learn whether his grade was C, O, M, or E over Dr. Brodnax's shoulder and was caught in the act. Beware! The doctor doesn't stand for that!

Dr. Bascom, after sweating blood and becoming the proud possessor of some premature gray hairs, finally drilled the essentials of the developing embryo in our seemingly too crowded cortexes. Whenever we were all 'cocked and primed for a quiz he would draw those familiar lines on the board and which would make us all think of these following words:

"Don't write me out, I'm a table;
Fill me in, I'm a chart."

Dr. E. C. L. gave us the theory of that indispensable science—Physiological Chemistry—and we were told to search for light on the practical side in Mr. McCracken's laboratory. Here some few fell by the wayside, probably because they were unable to decide whether it was more important to develop the technique of removing the stopper from a bottle on shelf 32, or to count thirty and then squeeze the bulb of a pipette.

Even though the trail was rocky at some times, we finally came to the end of the Freshman year and looked forward to the following September when we would be the Sophomore Class of the Medical College of Virginia.

That time came sooner than had been anticipated and reassembling around Mr. McCauley's place of business, we were soon deprived of our "filthy lucre" and started on our way.

The first day Dr. Haskell proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that our journey would not be all smooth sailing and indeed he has been demonstrating repeatedly the marked effects of emotional states (fear and embarrassment) on the heart rate and blood distribution. He even makes a fellow forget whether magnesium sulphate is an emetic or a cathartic and many poor fellow has worn the seat out of his pants while wondering—"will he get me next?"

Dr. Miller was again our instructor but this time concerning pathogenic 'bugs' and Dr. Shaw said that before we could enter his laboratory we must put out our cigarettes and give him a chew of "climax."

The mysteries of the fibre tracts of the C. N. S. were put across by Dr. Osterud and it would seem that the most of the class should specialize in Neurology of Neurological Surgery.

Dr. Phillips and Dr. Sharpe have labored with us faithfully along pathological lines and we trust their labors have not been in vain.

The many other subjects of importance and the professors of renown encountered during this never-to-be-forgotten year was as interesting as the few mentioned, but since we must limit our space, we must conclude by saying that, even though we have often thought the saying, "Once a Sophomore, always a Sophomore," was true, nevertheless we, that is the most of us, are Juniors.

FRESHMAN MEDS
fresliman medical college
class history

it was in the balmy days of mid september when eighty-seven young men and two young ladies graced the halls of the college for the first time after contributing to the supply of shylock's shekels we marched proudly through the building and finally left it with one arm loaded with the contents of the knowledge of gray, cunningham and dorland while in the other we bore a selection of peyton's contribution. this together with an idea of zoology and chemistry caused us to take on an aspect of an embryonic physician.

after listening to the pedigree of various members of our class who were reputed to be the best men that their counties had ever produced, we selected a staff of officers that were beyond comparison.

when the bony make up of the body was thoroughly understood we were allowed to the more pleasant phase of anatomy which fact incidently caused the pockets of the soap dealers to bulge.

after we had studied enough to injure our health someone must have told us the secret of sustaining the body, as at that time a "y" drive was started. we proved to be easily driven because we finished at the top of all the classes.

the call for class basketball was heard, which was answered by several stalwart men. each edition of the skull and bones announced that another good team had gone wrong until finally it told us with all its vigor that the freshmen had won the cup.

this was followed by the call for candidates for the varsity and when the first whistle was heard, on the floor was found three donned with the harmonizing green uniforms.

since we have showed the school that we are about all that one could expect, it is only left for us to show the world what great men can do in the wonderful field of medicine.

Senior Dental Class History

If we could appropriately be as terse as that famous treatise on "Snakes in Ireland," we would imitate it by saying that we have no history, but it is required that we flatter ourselves by bursting into print with events. The achievements of the class of 1926 have been so multitudinous that, due to the lack of space, it would be impossible to narrate all the events of its history, chronologically.

Looking back over our fields of labor, now, as Seniors, we begin to realize that we are just Freshmen, thrust into the world of facts. Those memories instead of vivid realities!—we mourn those happy days spent in our class rooms.

In the year of 1922, after having had one year of academic training, we decided to cast our lot with M. C. V. to take up our devoted profession. After many hardships encountered in the pre-dental and dental courses while at this institution, with few mishaps, we've reached our goal. In the fall of 1924 we were allowed to enter the Infirmary with the responsibility clearer than ever before. We can now begin to appreciate the unselfish devotion to uphold the standards of scientific dentistry which was so well exemplified by our most admirable group of instructors. For those men who so ably assisted, we wish to express our feelings of appreciation and gratitude for setting us on the right path to the scientific study and practice of dentistry.

As the time is drawing near, we begin to realize more than before how dear were the times in our inter-class association; how great was the love of the Medical College of Virginia. The sweet memories of the past will soon vanish when we as classmates will be scattered to the four winds of the earth. In the years to come let us uphold the standards of our Alma Mater—and let us show greater interest, that we might grow and bring more glory to this institution.

In this class we have left many things undone, but have accomplished more than most—we are reasonably proud of our history.
This picture is a familiar one to all men in school—"Little Dick," of Fincastle, Va. We prophesy great success for him in his chosen profession. He is good, and don't mind admitting it. A regular glutton for work, and equally enthusiastic in praising it. His one idea is to improve his work and tell others the superiority of Supreme methods over all others. A big IT, but he delivers the goods, so he gets away with it, because the patient knows the work is well done; better than anyone else could do it. He tells them so himself.

Dick, we don't have to wish you success. We predict that your influence and hard work will be justly rewarded.

RICHARD L. SIMPSON

RICHMOND, VA.

Ex-Dean of Dentistry; Eminent Professor in Crown and Bridge.

This picture is not only familiar around M. C. V., but throughout the East, on account of various clinics given during the last twenty years. A man who has given his best to the profession, and always holds perfection as his ideal to his fellow practitioners. His constructive criticisms have given better methods, and he is always eager to aid and boost his chosen profession to higher ideals and more scientific technic.
B. K. Barker
ABINGDON, VA.
William and Mary College.

B. K. is a man who is intolerant of those who are conceited and full of sham, but stands firmly for those things that real men cherish. He possesses rare wit and goes quite well, especially with the "wimmen."

Much can be said pro and con in this case. Some say he is a crazy nut, but this is due partly to the manner in which his mother dresses him. It is assured, however, that he will meet people socially and professionally upon the square.

Lea attended Y. M. I. for two years before he entered M. C. V. There he was drilled constantly, but since he entered the Infirmary he has been doing the "drilling."

His name was always among the highest when the grades were posted. Beside being a good student, he is one of the best operators in the class. He has two hobbies—music and golf.

Lea is a real man and a true friend. To be a friend of his is to realize what friendship really means.
John M. Burbank, Jr.

John, otherwise known as "Hansome," is the beauty of the class. Besides being such a beauty, he is the most polite boy who ever attended this school. "Now, down home" is a favorite expression of his when referring to the wonderful town of Hampton, from which he migrated four years ago to join our ranks. Though inclined to be lazy, John is not so laggard with the ladies. His departure from Richmond will leave many broken hearts. All in all, John is one of the best that M. C. V. is sending forth this year; and here's hoping the best of success to him when he begins practicing "Down home in Hampton."

"Pop," our president, is decidedly the most all 'round man in the class. The oldest in years and the youngest in spirit, a veteran of the World War, a shavetail in the 53d Machine Gun Battalion. He is a husband and a proud daddy, being the only benedict in the class. He is an earnest and skillful worker as well as a diligent student, being famous for his "Doctor, I read in the Dental Journal," etc. Golf is one of his favorites, especially the Scottish version of the game. At some of the future conventions we will expect him to give his clinic and follow it up with a demonstration on the links.

William R. Devin, better known as "Charlie, My Boy," to the ladies, because he makes them toddle when that piece is ragged and there is a good floor. "Charlie" likes his fun, but when it comes to his work he is strictly professional. He is noted for his politeness, especially toward the fairer sex, and has made many hits, regardless of his Jewish looks and excess fat.

Taking him all around, "Charlie" is a very fine fellow, and is liked by all who know him.
We wish for him much happiness and success.

"Fitz" needs no introduction to his classmates, for they all know him to be the jolly, easy-going, lovable fellow he really is. Whenever you see him he has a pleasant greeting for you.

To those who are not so fortunate as to be a member of the Senior Class, sufficient to say he received one of the highest honors possible for a Dental Student, that of Vice-President of the Student Body.

Besides his popularity, "Fitz" is a good hard worker, one who can have a good time and yet not neglect his duties.

May the best be yours, "Fitz"!

"Functun," or "Oh, Boy," as he was later christened, answers to either name with some witty remark.

"Oh, Boy" entered our class as an alumnus of Roanoke College, and is still a strong supporter of the Maroon against all but the Green and White. His technique has been in a class by itself, even in early freshman days, and we think he should specialize in Prosthetics.

He is a brilliant scholar and a hard worker. The community into which he goes will receive a good dentist and a valuable citizen.

"Lightning" received his name early in freshman days by always getting to class in time for second roll call at the end of the period. Later "Lucky" was added, when he spilled pumice in the vulcanizer and his plates came out polished.

He upheld the family traditions by studying Dentistry. His father is a dentist. Two brothers and a sister also preceded him at M. C. V.

He always does well in his studies, notwithstanding frequent trips to Farmville, and numerous other social activities. He is unusually popular with his classmates and has a host of friends throughout the College. The Infirmary Cleopatras were always "Lucky's patients and an inspiration for his good work.

Because of his good nature, sunny disposition and willingness to lend a hand to any in need, Jonesy has made many lasting friendships. If you want to see him smile, ask him about the night of October 31st, or about the gang of 35 and 395. While not a bookworm, Jones has worked hard and accomplished much in the four years with us. May the best things in life be yours, old boy. A Johnson or a Winter may be yours.

"Tom" stands head and shoulders above the other members of our class, being over six feet tall. Not only in height does he excel, however, as this exponent of the terpsichorean art can certainly strut his stuff. He is quite an adept at mimicry and this accomplishment has afforded us many a laugh. His good nature and kindly manner have won the admiration of the entire class. He enjoys the faculty of not having to dig so hard for his knowledge, only a casual reading of an assignment being necessary to prepare him for the work at hand.

Garnett is the type of man we are all proud to know, and we wish him the best success as he undertakes his life work.

Upon entering school four years ago we found in our midst a smiling countenance; a product of the University of Virginia, whom we soon learned to know as "Eddie." He soon won his way to the first ranks in scholarship and popularity among his classmates.

"Eddie" is an athlete of no mean ability, his work on the court and on the diamond having done much for our teams.

His personality and his winning smile seem to act as a magnet for the ladies; thus the nickname, "Sheik.

Endowed with qualities which lead to success, we predict for him a bright and useful future.

Russell S. Powell
ROCKY MOUNT, VA.

Before entering M. C. V., "Kid" cast his lot to Roanoke College to prepare himself to study Dentistry. On entering this institution, he became an ardent worker and has made a host of friends with his pleasing personality and "never say die" spirit.

"Kid" has also some athletic ability and has been a most devoted worker on the court and diamond. When it comes to the ladies, he just shines, and we've often wondered why he continues to go to Radford for the week-ends.

Here's wishing you much success in your chosen profession.
Wilbur A. Ratcliffe
RICHMOND, VA.
President Junior Class; Honor Council, '23-'24.
"Rat," a direct descendant of Cromwell's Round Heads, received the name of "Cue-Ball" in his early freshman days. His mind is broad and his head is round, so our class took advantage of its opportunity in choosing its president for the junior year. "Cue-Ball" ruled with the hand of an absolute monarch. If he used the same technique with the girls that he did in ruling his class, we can easily understand why Richmond's fairer sex is conquered. In spite of the charms he holds for the ladies, he is a student of whom the College may be proud.

One could not wish for a truer friend or a better sport than the above-named gentleman. We expect "P. D." to do much toward the advancement of Dentistry. Friend, gentleman and scholar—could one say more?
J. Lewis Walker, Jr.

J. Lewis, or "Monroe," as he is better known, came in our midst in the Fall of the year 1922, from that great city by the sea—Norfolk. His entry was quiet and unassuming, and we were quick to learn that the quiet ones are the ones who accomplish most. "Monroe" can tell us more about the city of Richmond than the city fathers who planned the capital of the state. He has utilized this knowledge to the fullest. Lewis is a very thorough young man; not coming uncertainly to any conclusion without sound reasoning. His standing in school is among the best. He has made many warm friends in his class and we all wish him the best of success as he goes out "to assume life's sterner labors in a great and mighty world without."

"Skinny" came to us from the University of Richmond. Being captain of track there, he got away with a stride that has given our class a record to equal and one of which we are very proud. In Chemistry and Metallurgy, his "Ah-ah" and "Er-er-er" were always the correct formula, and he passed the quizzes with flying colors. His quiet manner and pleasing personality have won him a host of friends at M. C. V. In regard to the fair sex he has little to say, but the class thinks the old saying, "Still water runs deep," might apply to him. He is a true friend and conscientious worker, who can be relied upon to do his share in everything. Truly a gentleman of sterling worth. We wish for him great success.
THE ANATOMIST

Peyton

Grim Scavenger old who still holds sway
In your hall so grim and drear,
I believe you think as you toil away,
Scraping the bones that soon will lay
In the students' boxes for many a day,
Even after you're dead and gone your way—
What those bodies were while here.

You scrape them and boil them long and well
In your hall so grim and drear,
I'm sure you know what tales they tell,
While the cauldron bubbles and vapours smell,
Tales of deeds that were dark and fell,
As the darkest pit in deepest Hell,
Tales you'd do well to fear.

That bag you picked and set aside
In your hall so grim and drear,
Holds the hand of a dainty infanticide,
And you placed it apart with a sense of pride—,
Away from the bones of a suicide,
And the skull of a negro homicide,
Which leered so ghastly it seemed to deride
The Fate that had placed it there.

You've become such a part of this musty room,
Your hall so grim and drear,
That after you've gone to meet your doom
And the twilight shadows, gathering, loom
Deep in this alcove—a potter's tomb—
The skeletons, hanging, will miss their groom,
And rattle and clash in the darkening gloom
—But I think you'll still be near.

"K"—'26.
Junior Class History

We began our Freshman year in Dentistry with ten men in the class and every man was from the Old Dominion. After taking Anatomy and Organic Chemistry, we thought we had passed the worst of our troubles, but we heard that they had just begun.

The original class suffered some at the beginning of the Sophomore year in that O'Connor was missing. However, the two Howards were gained which more than made up for the loss. Biochemistry and Metallurgy had us worried then, but most of us carried on successfully.

Beginning our Junior year we repeated the second year in part by losing one man and gaining two more. This brought our class up to twelve; Dr. Suwa from Japan being one of the new men, and Killing, from Atlanta Southern Dental College, being the other. Dr. Suwa was a great help to the Junior class in informing Dr. Haslam that we would not meet him. Fleet acquired also extensive knowledge of Pathology. For one thing he learned that the Wasserman test was not a test for sugar in the blood.

After a month of work in the Infirmary with hardly anything to show for the energy expended, we came to the conclusion that Dentistry is all right so long as a practice is not made of it. A large number of our patients seemed to be people of means—they mean to pay, but are seemingly waiting for the government bonus or something just as uncertain.

At the end of the year we have become accustomed to hardships and obstacles; as we think and are looking forward to our Senior year when we will be on our last lap toward the coveted D.D.S. degree.

SOPHOMORE DENTS
Sophomores Dental Class History

The has been just two short years as measured by the falling sand in the glass of time since we, the Class of '28, entered as Freshman at the Medical College of Virginia one September morn. However, to us it has seemed a miniature eternity. It has always been said that thirteen is an unlucky number. To us this fact is unquestioned, for out of the original thirteen only six remain to return to the Dental School to resume their course in the Sophomore class. Some found that their life's calling was not for Denistry, but for Medicine. While again sickness, together with the usual old disease—"not being able to make their work"—took several from our midst. We are fortunate, however, in having a transfer from the University of Maryland to join us this year. He gave us consolation in saying that no Dental School is easy.

We seven members, who made up the Sophomore Class, were very hard enthusiastic workers. We were not satisfied with a mere grade of 80 but "put out" all that was in us; therefore, we honestly tried to learn Denistry instead of merely attempting to do just enough work to get through. Since by the earnest work of the professors and mainly of our new dean, Dr. R. D. Thornton, the Dental School has become a class "A" school, we feel that it is our duty to be, when we graduate, a credit to the Medical College of Virginia, instead of the College being merely a credit to us.

Back in our Freshman year we thought that no other year could be as hard, but in our second year we found this to be a dream only. We will never forget our Physiology course under Dr. "Charlie" Haskell. Especially will those reminiscences linger for many a day in the minds of Messrs. Dodsworth and Repass, as they were his pets. (You may call them his pets!) How pleasant or unpleasant these memories may be, we can say that we really learned Physiology of the human body, or rather cats and dogs. It was this year that we learned how to burn up some of the Nohler metals, especially gold, in the Technic Laboratory. The gold we destroyed trying to make crowns, bridges, etc., would be enough to crown the kings of England back to Charles I, and form the trestle work of the Brooklyn Bridge. It was here, also, that we learned our best cussing. If one would work two months on a gold plate, then to polish a large hole through it, who wouldn't cuss? Such happened in several instances. At the end of our first semester we thought we knew all the drugs, their actions, and all about prescription writing, but when Dr. Charlie got "on us" in Pharmacology we saw how little we did know. Our biochemistry course was a pleasure for two reasons, first, our lecturer was of such oratorical ability, he could hold the class spell bound for hours, and secondly, our instructor in the lab was one of the fairer sex, and thus, gave great inspiration to us, as experimenters. The second semester we spent three long hours a week in the great field of Bacteriology. Some claimed it was a domestic science course in dish washing. Even at that, we found much time to learn about the elusive bacteria.

As a word of closing even if our trials and discouragements have been many, the two years have been pleasant and its memories, in the years to come, will be a heritage we should enjoy. So to M. C. V. and our friends we say goodbye until we assemble again next fall.

FRESHMAN DENTS
freshman dental class history

as we, the freshman dental class of 1925-26, entered the portals of the medical college of Virginia, we little reckoned what an epoch it meant in our lives. It was no new experience to enter college; but, nevertheless, we did not feel as we previously had, in the dim past, when the leap was made from the lower to the higher branches of learning, and, in fact, a peculiar sensation, an undescribable feeling, became paramount. That at last we were beginning something that would mean all to us and much to humanity as a whole was hard to visualize. To bring oneself to the realization that he is no longer a boy and that he must ascend (or descend, if you prefer) from his boyhood traits to the grim duties of fitting himself for his chosen profession; a profession that will not only rebound to his benefit, but be a blessing to all mankind, is much easier said than done.

On the 16th day of September, in the one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-fifth year of our Lord, there was gathered together thirty-six serious-minded young men, idealists, perhaps, but all determined to amount to something—to be something, from as far north as New York and as far south as South Carolina, from the mountains of West Virginia to the Atlantic seaboard, came this class, a record class, the largest in the past five years, to become dentists.

Now what is a dentist? The standard dictionary defines as "one who practices dental surgery, as filling, cleaning, adjusting, or extracting teeth, and providing artificial dentures; a dental surgeon." If this be true, what we are wondering is, why we are called upon to dissect the human body from the diaphragm to the hair on the top of the head, and perhaps the hair, too. We have not as yet been told that. It is all greek to us, but we have no doubt that the authorities, in all their wisdom, know, after the doctrine of the "survival of the fittest" will apply.

However, as they say, every cloud has a silver lining, and we are grateful to the dental faculty for their delightful entertainment given to the freshman class at the university club on Tuesday, October the 28th. Our only other comment is that it has been a long time since the 28th of October.

Senior Pharmacy Class History

IN SEPTEMBER of nineteen twenty-five one of the largest classes to ever enter the Medical College of Virginia Pharmacy School, enrolled for work. The prospects for a good class were bright. Among our number were representatives from two-thirds the colleges of Virginia. Mr. Rudd predicted the best pharmacy class in the history of the school—we believe it did live up to this reputation the first year.

It is true that some members came to Richmond thinking the Pharmacy Course a two-year form of “rest” treatment. However, in less than two weeks these sadly misinformed individuals had learned their mistake and were actually assisting such terms as pharmacopoeia, hygroscopic and elutriation to diffuse through their brains. Then they exerted more effort to keep the knowledge from “diffusing” too much; which would have made the contact amount to nothing more than a slight “exposure.”

Next in my narrative of joys and sorrows comes a mention of those farseeing ones who joined the Y. M. C. A., made arrangements to attend all Friday night Chemistry lectures, and became members of the Second Baptist Church Sunday School class. This was done upon the advice of students with experience. The same well-meaning friends told us to keep a bold front and “slide” through the last half of the Senior year. We find it an excellent method to “slide” into the Senior class of next year.

During our period of study in Richmond we have learned many things. When asked how to pronounce the “j” in kjeldahl, Mr. Crockett answered that it was silent like “q” in wagon. Someone said Mr. Nichols was a different man at Chicago conventions, but the boys report that he insisted upon seeing “Pigs” while they went to burlesque shows.

“Boy, boy! You have to do better than that! What am I thinking about? One word.” (With due respects to Dean Rudd).

Last year when a student remarked that about everyone would graduate this year Mr. “Fac” said, “theoretically, yes; but practically no.” We must admit that Mr. Fackenthal was right, for the class seems to have become slightly demoralized. Probably it is due to the abrupt change in quiz system. Even at that, we can boast of having a very good class, and as Dr. Warren said about the little sperm cells, “some must always get lost in the rush.”

HISTORIAN.

Wortley Farhenheit Rudd

Wavy hair, Da-Da lips, and Goo-Goo eyes, how they typify our four-year-old, "One Word" Dean. How vividly the picture of his early life presents itself! Plainly do we see him seated by the banks of a little creek running caressingly by those old sun-kissed, red clay hills of old Virginny, as he carefully moulds the red clay between his little fingers into the form of pills, cataplasms, or poultices.

We see him seated with his fellow playmates, or in the presence of elders with the silence of the Stoic—always listening, but never speaking unless very necessary—an acquired childhood trait so admired and respected by his present friends and many of his students. Or we visualize this unfractuositic squiopedalionist, knowledge-thirsty, embryonic pharmacist gaining his first rudimentary knowledge of the body and the intricate value of febrile air, and potent carthartics by sitting himself (in silence) at the feet of one of those grand masters of the past—the Medicine Show Man. How he must have thrilled as he proudly exhibited to the kind old Indian Doctor his little Pilulae Mudi, wrought from the red clay by his own little fertile brain and little lily white fingers.

The spark of chemistry in his soul was fanned and fed as he watched the kind-hearted Doc concoct his wonderful panacea for all ailments by throwing into his pot herbs, berries, a few snakes, one and one-half toads, some W. C. T. U. literature as a preservative, seven rodents, and a few other salient therapeutic measures so sadly neglected by the present-day practitioner.

These and other factors have given to us our fighting, conservative talking, two-flsted, "One-Word" Dean of today.

Dean Wortley F. Rudd

Mr. Rudd has given a good many years of service to the Medical College of Virginia. The fruits of his endeavors are more pronounced in the Department of Pharmacy, but indirectly, the entire school has profited by the untiring efforts of Dean Rudd to perfect his school.

After graduating from the Medical College of Virginia, he took postgraduate work at Columbia University. The call of the Alma Mater was strong, and shortly after completing his work at Columbia he returned to the Medical College, where he has consistently labored with the never-tiring trait of one who loves his work.
Albert Lee Anderson
SOUTH BOSTON, VA.
Kappa Psi
Pharmaceutical Association.

Born in North Carolina, lives in South Boston, and comes to M. C. V. to receive his education in a chosen profession—this is “Skiebo’s” life history so far.
Although short in stature, he is high in ability and ideals—always a victor of his determinations. He makes friends with everyone with whom he comes in contact.
We see him put the finishing touch to that education sought two years ago, and now we send him out into the world with our very best wishes for his future success.

The Seniors

Upshur Littleton Arrington
BEDFORD, VA.
Pharmaceutical Association.

"Up," the advocate of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, comes to us from Bedford, Va., "the garden spot of the world." He attacks his duties in a bold manner and is usually successful. Mr. Rudd never has to worry about checking his work, because he feels sure "Up" knows what he is doing.
"Up" is quite a sheik, but always attends to his business first.
Now that we have seen the handle put to his name, we wish him much success in his chosen profession.
Francis H. Barnes
Roanoke, Va.
Kappa Psi
University of Virginia; President Junior Class; Vice-President Y. M. C. A., ’25-’26; Editor-in-Chief "Skull and Bones," ’25-’26; Pharmaceutical Association.

This big, little man entered M. C. V. after spending two years at University of Virginia. Francis has shown the instructors and his classmates his worth as a man. He has been in the limelight since the time of his matriculation.

"Barney" will go to his home in Roanoke to enter business with his father and to make a name in the profession of Pharmacy, the ideals of which he holds dear to his heart.

We bid farewell to you, old man, and may you succeed in life as you have here.

Phi Delta Chi
M. C. V. Orchestra, ’24-’25.

"Fickle as a girl, with his mind in another world." Although he came from a town with a population of nineteen, he is gradually learning city ways. His good nature has won him many friends, and his jokes, "bum" as they are, are sure to cause all who hear them to "giggle" (if some one tickles them). He is noted for his laugh, as well as his idiosyncrasy of keeping everyone waiting for him to dress.
Belvin Willard Blackman
Portsmouth, Va.
Class Basketball.

Take two drams of tincture of sportsmanship, one half dram of mucilage of senno, three drams of spirit of good will, and thirty grains of fine fellow; mix in a mortar and the resulting homogeneous mass is generally known as Belvin W. Blackman, student extraordinary and athlete—plenty potent—to the court of St. Rudd. Belvin has proven his worth and ability. It does not take much foresight to see that he will soon take a prominent part in the affairs of the Pharmacists of Virginia.

Cabell Briscoe Carlan, Jr.
Galax, Va.
Kappa Psi
Athletic Representative Senior Class,

Carlan, Jr., failed to hand in a write-up to the "X-Ray," and we don't know whether this was due to Dean Rudd camping on his trail or whether his best girl monopolized his spare time. Regardless of the cause, we are sure Cabell will uphold the standards of the "Teachings of Rudd" and will play his part in the world of Pharmacy. Good luck to you, old man, and may we some day be proud of you.
Jefferson Walker Crandol
Hampton, Va.

"Love 'em all, but don't lose your heart to any of them."

He is known to us all as "J. W." Is he a sheik? I'll say he is! The girls keep him out so late at night that he goes to bed early (A.M.) and gets up early (A.M.).

The most peculiar part of it all is that he always finds time for his studies, and he knocks them cold. He is a genius in working Dean Rudd's chemistry problems (he really worked one last year), but all in all he knows his stuff. He is witty, good looking, and is always ready to help a fellow when in distress.

He is a natural born pharmacist, having had three years' experience. Much as we regret, we must bid J. W. farewell. Good luck to you, old boy.

The Seniors

E. Jackson Eggborn
Culpeper, Va.

Kappa Psi

Secretary-Treasurer, Pharmaceutical Association, '23-'24; "Skull and Bones" Staff, '23-'24; Secretary-Treasurer, Student Body, '25-'26; Vice-President Senior Class.

Three years ago, Culpeper shed briny tears as it bade farewell to this blushing, winsome youth, "Jack" entered our ranks with a strong desire to own a "sheep hide," and by diligent application and faithful work, he has received that "skin you love to touch."

At times he throws off his mask of solemn demeanor and turns his aspirations to the higher pursuits of Cupid's garden. No Romeo ever basked more successfully beneath a balcony than this master of hearts.

When "Auld Lang Syne" is played, and he starts back to Culpeper, M. C. V. is sending out a son of whom she can be justly proud.
JOHN WILLIAM FISHER
Roanoke College; Honor Class; Pharmaceutical Association.

Not a type, but an individual and a personality—that's "Bud."
Fisher came to us from Roanoke College, with habits of study already well formed. While at M. C. V. he has proven his ability and disclosed his resources by turning to and accomplishing greater things as a professional man and botanist. After the manner of men, Fisher took unto himself a helpmate before entering Pharmacy, consequently he has been impervious to the "wiles of wild women" of Richmond, and has been spared that diversion.
In college he has won a host of friends, and those who can claim him as a friend possess a friendship of which they may well be proud—a friendship to cherish far above anything that pecuniary power can ever obtain.

HUNTER M. GAUNT
Phi Delta Chi
Pharmaceutical Association.

"Soup" came to us from the Beautiful Valley of Virginia, and is very familiar with the Endless Caverns.
He is one of our best students, and sometimes acts as Dean Rudd's helper.
Gaunt has made many friends among the faculty and among his classmates, and will be kindly remembered by all who have been associated with him while in college.
We all know that when he leaves old M. C. V. he will conquer any task he may undertake.
Lowell Alexander Gregory
HAGAN, VA.
Lynchburg College; Virginia Literary Society; Southwest Virginia Club; Honor Society; Pharmaceutical Society.

Gregory has credit for being one of the luminaries of the class in scholastic attainments, with an unsurpassed average. In his junior year he received the candidacy for the Fairchild Scholarship, and placed high in the competition. His ability was proven beyond doubt by winning the State Scholarship.

Disregarding the advice of Paul, he took unto himself a wife, thus qualifying as the fourth married member of the class. Although his quiet and unassuming nature is construed by some as indifference; to know him is to like him, and to his immediate acquaintances he is recognized as being a diligent student, a loyal friend and a damn good fellow.

The Seniors

Irvin D. Harvey
LONG ISLAND, VA.
Kappa Psi
Pharmaceutical Association.

A quiet unassuming fellow, better known to his classmates as "Colonel," joined us two years ago. He has overcome many obstacles and secured a firm grasp of the fundamentals of Pharmacy. We are proud to number him among our classmates. He is every inch a gentleman and possesses all of those traits so necessary to become a good pharmacist.

"Colonel" has a genuine affection for our Southern girls, and we hope to see him happily married in the near future. We wish him all the success which he so justly deserves and hope that he may practice his profession under the ideal conditions of which he now dreams.

Henry C. Hawthorne
Kappa Psi
Vice-President Junior Class; President Moustache Club, '25-'26.

Henry C. is another of those who failed to have his write-up in, so it therefore falls upon us to do him up well.
A very good student, a fine fellow, and one worthy of his position among men. We are sure the School of Pharmacy will miss you, Henry, and may your future life and profession be such that old M. C. V. will be proud to call you one of her own.

The Seniors

Pharmacy Class

Earl Ireson
Tazewell, Va.
Phi Delta Chi, Zeta Delta Chi
Vice-President Junior Class; Southwest Virginia Club; Pharmaceutical Association.

"Buck" came to us deep in love. However, the "spell" seemed to slowly wear away, and we know him to be a wiser and more sensible boy. He has a way with the ladies that is hard to understand. "Buck" is one of the hardest working students in class, but the Lord never made him to be a chemist. Fortunately, he more than makes up for this with his unusually good technique.
A man with "Buck's" pleasing personality and habits of neatness should certainly make a successful pharmacist. Take our best wishes with you, old boy!
ZACHARIAH BELLFIELD JOHNSTON
MADISON, VA.
Kappa Psi
Square and Compass; B.S., V. P. I.; Pharmaceutical Association.

Z. B. came to us after two years of the “bracing” atmosphere at V. P. I. After breaking through his shell of modesty, one discovers a mine of enviable qualities. He possesses a wonderful disposition, which makes his presence desired in any company. A clean sportsman, hard worker and perfect gentleman is Z. B. Nor is his ability in the class room the least deserving of praise. As one of two candidates for the B.S. degree in Pharmacy, his record is outstanding. With his remarkable ability, success is assured, and as M. C. V. loses a loyal son, the world gains a four-square man.

The Seniors

MINOR “PEG” KAVANAUGH
Phi Delta Chi
Pharmaceutical Association; Basketball and Baseball Team.

“Peg” is another of the Valley boys, as he comes from the beautiful and historical town of Woodstock. He has “Rip Van Winkle” beat when it comes to sleeping. “Rip” slept fifteen years, whereas “Peg” has slept twenty-one. He is one of the best students in his class and has made a multitude of friends among the faculty and students.
He also likes his toddy as well as the next one, and helps uphold the supremacy of the Senior Pharmacists.

Pharmacy Class
Paul Walton Lambert
Bridgewater, Va.

Phi Delta Chi

Pharmaceutical Association; Class Basketball.
Paul came into our midst at the beginning of the '24-'25 session. He hails from Bridgewater, and is known to the profs as a hard working student and to the boys as a jolly good fellow.
Paul is very conspicuous in class because of his particular shade of blond hair, and because he is so easily seen, he is the object of a good many questions.
He is always on the job and seldom caught napping. We are sure his manliness and sincerity will make the profession he has chosen proud of him.
It is with sad hearts that we bid him farewell.

The Seniors

Henry Larken Lester
Portsmouth, Va.

Phi Delta Chi

Pharmaceutical Association.

He hails from the Tidewater section of Virginia, Portsmouth. Just an uncoerned, irresistible, good fellow, with a great hobby for women when he isn't working. In all seriousness, he is not the kind of a fellow that women and men forget, for he has a winning personality.
When he leaves old M. C. V. he will not be forgotten. We extend to him our best wishes for the future.
Sam Levinson
RICHMOND, VA.

Sam has the ability to be one of the leading scholars in our class, but due to his inherent love for chemistry he has neglected all other subjects in his pursuit of this science. He is without doubt one of the greatest students in chemistry ever to leave this school, and it is generally believed that he will continue his studies along chemical lines after leaving college.

To touch on other lines, he possesses a genially good nature and usually sees the humorous side of affairs.

We all hope that our "human question mark" will make great headway in his chosen line of endeavor.

The Seniors

Jacob Moore
RICHMOND, VA.

"Joe," besides being a remarkable student, as shown by his marked ability and scholastic attainments, also has that personality which is a natural gift to only a few of the chosen. The friendship of all of his fellow students and professors makes us believe that he shoots a wicked line.

And the "Golls"—all we have to mention are a very few of his many accomplishments, such as playing a marvelous game of —— in combination with his sentimental eyes and coal black hair, to show that the rest of the "sheiks" haven't a chance.

Here's hoping, Ole Chip, that when you leave us you will retain as pleasant memories as you have left behind; and as we know that your success is only a matter of time, all that we can wish you is happiness in your work.
CARLTON AUBREY POLLARD
BEDFORD, VA.

Kappa Psi

Pharmaceutical Association Scholarship; Pharmaceutical Association; Y. M. C. A. Membership Committee.

"Polly" comes to us from Bedford, Va. He never takes anything for granted, and when a disagreement arises he has to be shown that he is wrong; which he seldom is.

His poetry, jokes and songs have made our work at M. C. V. more of a pleasure than any other one thing. He is never in a hurry and can never be rushed unless he is told that a letter is awaiting him at home. As a student he is one of the best, and we wish him even more success in the future than he has had here.

The Seniors

PHARMACY CLASS

BENJAMIN F. POWELL
MARTINSVILLE, VA.

Pharmaceutical Association; Y. M. C. A. Membership Committee.

Powell hails from Martinsville, Virginia, a powerful and moon-shiny section, which is shown by his power and bright way of doing things. When he says his way is right, all other ways may as well be forfeited. He is quiet and honest with himself in his work—always ready to help those who need deep thought.

Powell did not play with the ladies much, but a girl was once heard singing, "The Powell That I Love."

We send him out as a Ph.G., and wish him all possible success.
William B. Powers
SOUTH HILL, VA.

Yes, this is W. B. himself. When the Lord made this product of South Hill, He destroyed the formula. His likable personality and ready wit make the dark hours bright and the bright hours brighter for everyone with whom he comes in contact. This, with his generous and matchless disposition, has won for him a place in the heart of every man who knows him.

“Beck,” the ladies’ man, is a marvel. The girls literally flock to him for advice, protection, guidance, etc., and fall under the charm of his fluency on those matters which interest them.

W. B. is also a good student and clever technician. He will make his class and Alma Mater justly proud of him in the successful years that are sure to follow.

The Seniors

William H. Preston
MEADOW VIEW, VA.

Emory and Henry.

“Bill” quickly took the little tip from Mr. Rudd and proved to his fellow students that he was an honest and sincere worker.

He has lately been proclaimed “Sheik Bill,” and the only thing we have against him are his red, rosy cheeks.

“Bill” is quite a singer, supposed to have a very good tenor voice, and can sing “Sweet Adeline” quite well.

The best of luck to you, “Bill.”

Pharmacy Class
Roy P. Rhodes
Charlottesville, Va.
Phi Delta Chi

Pharmaceutical Association; President Senior Class.
Roy, known to the faculty as a diligent student and to his classmates as a darn good "fella," came into our midst from that historical city of Charlottesville.

He has proven himself a regular "K. O." in pursuit of pharmaceutical knowledge as well as—
'thos' we hate to admit it—being envions—the fair sex.

He is a hard worker and a real man and, Roy,
M. C. V., wishes you every success for the future.

P.S.—One dark-haired little girl we know says
"Life now ain't what it used to be—HE'S gone!!"

The Seniors

William Mayer Robinson
Richmond, Va.

Here we have another Richmond boy who, having won at John Marshall the reputation of being quiet and studious, came to M. C. V. for his Ph.G.

It is a pleasure to have been associated with "Willie" during his college days. His fellow students have always found him congenial, sincere in his work, and always loyal to the best interests of the college.

He has the unusual knack of saying the right thing at the right time—especially in the quiz room.

We wish for him the success he so richly deserves.
Harold Thomas Sloan
Ferrum, Va.

Phi Delta Chi
Pharmaceutical Association; Southwest Virginia Club.

"Baby" was here to matriculate when the doors of Ole M. C. V. were opened for the session of '24-'25. Harold has made a splendid record as a student, and will, we believe, some day write his name high in the profession of Pharmacy.

He is a man of noble character and may be trusted with any responsibility, for he is willing to give his all. His sincerity, good humor and wit are only a part of a personality that is one of the outstanding ones in the school, as evidenced by his large number of friends.

"Baby," we wish you great success in all of your undertakings.

The Seniors

Carrol Morton Smith
Orange, Va.

Pharmaceutical Association.

"Smitty's" career at M. C. V. has been a splendid example of what can be accomplished by hard study and constant application. After a mediocre start, he terminated his junior year in a blaze of glory. In chemistry he won a stellar position, not by luck but by pluck.

Smith, the personality of the classroom, and his friendly loyalty, good fellowship, faithful work and earnest endeavor won the friendship of his classmates and the faculty alike.

Success will certainly be his.
Landon Timberlake
Charlottesville, VA.
Kappa Psi

A.B. Degree at V. M. I.; Ph.G. in Pharmacy; Captain Debating Team; Class Basketball; Class Representative "Skull and Bones"; Class Representative "X-Ray"; Pharmaceutical Association; Second Lieutenant Engineering Corps, O. R. C.

"Tim" came to us a V. M. I. graduate and has shown us, with his character and personality, what his former education did for him. The profession of Pharmacy called Landon so that he might follow in his father's footsteps and carry on the ideals entrusted to him by his Alma Mater. There is no doubt of his success in life.

We won't say good-bye to you, old boy, because we will hear from you by your success in your chosen field. By your absence M. C. V. sustains a loss.

The Seniors

George Bowler Tullidge, Jr.
Kappa Psi, Alpha Tau Omega

Secretary and Treasurer Senior Class; Class Basketball; Baseball Team; Ring Committee.

George came to Medical College just in time to take advantage of the two-year course. He came to us as a product of Lehigh University, and has shown by his work here he has represented her well.

It is written in the sands of fate that whatever George will do, he will always be successful; with an alert mind, a keen sense of humor, and a beaming personality, he will predominate in all that he shall undertake.

George leaves us to enter business in Staunton, and at that time M. C. V. will miss a true friend. We wish you the greatest of luck for the future.
Vernon A. Turner
BRISTOL, TENN.
Phi Delta Chi, Zeta Delta Chi
Debating Team, '24-'25: Pharmaceutical Association; Historian, '26; Southwest Virginia Club.

Vernon came to us after two years of pre-medical work at the University of Virginia. He will leave us as one of the first students of M.C.V. to receive the B.S. degree in Pharmacy.

After visiting Washington during the inauguration of President Coolidge, he was given the name of "Cal." This name has remained with him ever since.

"Cal" is a pal and true friend; always willing to show us how to get Pharmacy. We are proud of him, being one of the best students in class, and having the honor of ranking among the highest in the national Fairchild Examination.

Glasses seem to help him on windy days going down Broad, but when it comes to seeing the clock in the morning he is blind. His first words are, "What classes have we today?" and then, "For goodness sake, 'Buck,' pull down those windows."

Leaving us, "Cal" is going to study medicine. If he makes Medicine like he did Pharmacy, a great M.D. is in the future.

GEORGE DENNIS VOZEOLEAS
Delta Phi Sigma, Kappa Delta
"Vazy"

"Vazy" hails from the city of Alexandria. He is a good student and takes a great interest in school affairs.

As a cheer leader he is a "whizz"; a good debater, and a fine banjo player. It is reported that he organized the "Funnel Gang," and is a charter member of the "Seven Come Eleven Clan."

When Shakespeare said "Vanity is the spice of life," he must have had "Vazy" in mind, since his vanities blend into making him a fine fellow. Good luck to you, "Vazy."
HERBERT F. WALLACE
Phi Delta Chi

"Chug"
"Chug" hails from the southwestern part of the state. He is one of those boys that are admired by all for his wonderful personality and ability to make friends. "Chug" is very fond of books, a regular chemistry shark. He never fails to chill Dean Rudd on his quizzes. "Chug" has made an everlasting friendship among his schoolmates, and everyone believes there is a prosperous future awaiting him.

"As merry as the day is long."

Phi Delta Chi
Southwest Virginia Club: Pharmaceutical Association.

"Finny" 's bost the littlest man in class, but give him a step ladder and he'll make a Pharmacist hard to beat.

This energetic, ambitious youth hails from Southwest Virginia and holds high this section's reputation for producing good students. His smiles and friendly "whad'dy say" are known to everyone, and he is equally as popular with the pros as with the students.

"Finny" is an amiable chap, with a sincerity and determination that spells success for him in life. Farewell, "Finny," ole boy, we wish you the best of luck.
We have here another enthusiastic specimen from the Piedmont section of Virginia. "Jimmy Precious," or "Three-Dollar Williams," comes to us from Trinity College, where his desires for a Ph.G. were created and reared to such an extent that he journeyed to meet us at M. C. V., in search of the needful knowledge. He was satisfied, perhaps, beyond his desire; and we do not hesitate to say that Jimmy has stored away more of this knowledge than most of us. But don't think that Jimmy devotes all of his time to work and study. He likes a good time and has it. Neither is he averse to the charms of the ladies, though, unlike most of us he has a "specialty," and we fear it will not be long before he joins the ranks of Cupid's victims. For such a prince of a fellow as Jimmy, success is a certainty.
The Anatomist

Cruel death, in its claim, spares not the fair,
Nor do all of its victims honor'd lie;
But, then must be committed to the care
Of the anthropotomist, sitting nigh.

This comely maiden, once buoyant in life,
By the dread hand of disease expires,
Is now subject to the dissector's knife,
To carve and mutilate as he desires.

Perhaps she may have been a father's pride,
Nursed in a doting mother's fond embrace,
In manner modest, pure and dignified,
The pure idol of a courtier's grace.

Though ruthlessly this form he may despoil,
And will skilfully strive to gain his goal,
May in science be renowned for his toil,
But cannot harm the sanctity of her soul.

FRESHMAN PHARMACY
freshman pharmacy history

the advent of the freshman pharmacy class last september marks a date that will not soon be forgotten by those connected with the college and assuredly not by its members. our entrance marked the beginning of a new era at M. C. V. up to this time, a two year pharmacy course was considered all that was necessary, but in anticipation of the "wise" class which was matriculating, it was deemed advisable to change the course to a three year one.

knowing the faculty's solicitous feeling for us, we began our college careers with great confidence and high spirits. our first shock came when our math prof. sprang his first quiz. up to that time we were fully convinced that we knew everything, but after his visitation our spirits took a decided slump. however, youth easily adapts itself so we soon regained our debonair bearing, only to be crushed by the onward march of chemistry under the command of general rudd and his staff; and biology under the expert guidance of "scuse papa" and "fack." But, emerging from this "vale of tears," mr. crockett, the freshman's friend, came to our rescue and encouraged us with his sincere and reassuring manner.

a few of our classmates have fallen by the wayside, owing to ill health and other chances of fortune. we regret the break in our ranks, but, nevertheless, must carry on without them.

we hope to measure up to the expectations of our faculty and our friends; to go forth to the expiration of our course, better men and women for having served our time in the classic shades of old v. m. c.; to practice our profession, fully equipped, in a manner which will reflect honor upon our alma mater, our faculty, and ourselves.

SENIOR NURSES
The Class Will

We, The Senior Class of ’26

do make, publish and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills, and codiciles by us made.

Article 1: To the Juniors we will our most cherished Senior privileges, which are few. May they grow in their keeping.

Article 2: We wish to bequeath to the Freshmen, Miss Brockaway’s untiring dignity, hoping that they will each one guard it carefully.

Article 3: Miss Frances Thompson wishes to leave with the entire Training School her ready wit and good humor. It has helped her over many difficult places during her three years training.

Article 4: Miss Kerr passes on to the Juniors her “Sarcasm”; it has proven very valuable in dealing with Internes.

Article 5: Miss Moehlman, Treasurer of the Class of ’26, desires to leave in the hands of the Juniors the Class purse—it is as usual—empty! But as yet a good purse.

Article 6: To Miss Lucy Harris we will a nicely bound book on “Ethics.” May she in turn learn its extreme importance.

Article 7: Miss Mancos leaves with Miss Laura Bell Harris her pet motto, “Silence is more eloquent than speech.”

Article 8: We will to Miss Spiers Miss Brewbaker’s characteristic “giggle,” hoping that it will give her a brighter outlook on life.

Article 9: We leave in Miss Judd’s care all of Dr. LaRoque’s patients—she is so fond of surgery!

Article 10: Miss Perry wills to the Juniors, “ALL MEN.” She has definitely decided on one.

Article 11: To the Alumni we give our full co-operation together with our earnest desire to be of service in all of its undertakings.

Article 12: Last, but not least, we leave to Miss Reitz, our Directress and Dean of Nursing, our real affection, our highest regard and sincere wishes for all that is good. We hereby command the Juniors to look up and honor her as we have done.

Dedication to Miss Mew

To show even in a small way our appreciation of all that she has done for us during our three years here, We, the Senior Nurses of Memorial, dedicate this page to Miss Geraldine Mew. As we come to the close of our final year we begin to appreciate the unselfish devotion and untiring efforts of our Instructress—to her we wish to express our feeling of gratitude and appreciation. Much do we owe to Miss Mew, who by kindly words and good advice, has spurred us on to greater efforts in accomplishing our purpose.

Historian.
Sara Ruth Armentrout
Covington, Va.

"Army"
"She speaks reservedly, but with force."
Secretary, ’25-’26.

"Army" arrived in our midst one cold morning in November, 1923. She is a genial, good girl, and a hard worker. She is one who knows the true meaning of loyalty, one ever ready and willing to help at any time and one who has the initiative to push her profession to the utmost. We are glad she has cast her lot with us, and wish her great success. We believe her life work will prove a tribute of honor to the nursing profession.

Seniors

Margaret Brockaway
Monterey, Va.

"Brock"
Treasurer, ’23-’24.

"If aught obstruct thy way, yet stand not still, but wind about,
We have a great deal more kindness than is ever spoken."
Look at "Brock," and you'll know that she is the Senior of our class! She carries that reserved dignity which makes it impossible for one to forget that she is superior. "Brock" began the class of '26 and remained its sole member for months, until she was joined, one by one, by the different members of a very large group. She had certainly not missed her calling for she loves her work dearly and will be a credit to any branch of nursing that she might undertake.

Nurses
Allow me to introduce happy, sunny Brewbaker, who hailed from Buchanan. It took "Brew" quite a long time to know definitely what to do with her life, but she finally arrived at M. C. V. and has been a faithful worker since, winning favor from all sides. She may as well be called the class "Vamp," because she is always snatching some heart, causing it to flutter, and then tossing it to the winds. Brewbaker is always ready for fun, but equally to settle down to work when the play is over. Good luck to you, "Brew." We wish you success in the nursing fields of China.

Any place, any time, anywhere you see her, Fix is always wearing that smile that never wears off. By her wonderful personality she has won her way into our hearts and the hearts of the doctors as well. "Fixie" hasn't yet decided definitely what she will do after graduating, but we know, Fix, old dear, you will make a wonderful success, and we hope you will live long and always have a good time.

"A poet is not born in every race."
Lois Fergusson
LEBANON, VA.

"Soudder"

"Memories (of her) like tapestries,
Are woven with golden threads."

"Soudder" came to us very meek and mild, to put forth her every atom of strength and kindness to help in this needy world of suffering. Always ready and willing, nothing delays her when she has made up her mind. Certainly the paths of glory loom before her. Despite her seriousness, bits of humor ring merrily from her lips. You, "Soudder," dear, have won your way into our hearts by your kindness and friendliness toward everyone, and we are assured of your crowning success.

Seniors

Maude Fox
NEWPORT NEWS, VA.

"Maude"

"Nothing is worth doing at all that is not done well."

This has always been Maude's motto, and has carried her far into the making of a successful nurse. We see her always ready and alert while on duty, doing her work with a cheerful smile, letting no outside pleasure interfere with her duties. By her willing attitude she has gained the confidence of Miss Reitz, which is no small matter. Perhaps her untiring energy is the cause of Maude's large appetite, as we invariably see her during her hours off duty visiting the little corner store. All we can do is to wish her success, as we know she will make good in her own way that which she has here begun.
PEARL HYLTON
HIGH POINT, N. C.
"Paretail"
President, '23-'24.
"She liked whatever she looked at,
And her look went far."

Pearl first saw light in the sand hills of North Carolina. "Paretail," as she is better known to her many friends, has been with us the entire three years. Her capable mind, quiet dignity and gentle disposition have won her great admiration from others. Like all "down homers," she is fond of her native state, and has planned to return there and give of her talent to those who have patiently waited for her sojourn here to end. "Paretail" is an all-round good pal, a hard worker, and a true friend. We wish for her the unlimited success her ability demands.

VIRGINIA HEADSPETH
SOUTH BOSTON, VA.
"Head"
"Of singing thou hast the reputation."

"Head" hails from the land of South Boston, and we first knew of her arrival by hearing her sing: "Home, Sweet Home," at five o'clock in the morning. She has continued to sing her way into our hearts during our years together, as she possesses the faculty of making hosts of friends. She is the youngest member of the class. Though serious when necessary, she is good natured all the time. Her unusual success as a student has been due to her ability to absorb more from lectures than from poring over a book. We predict for her a brilliant future.
Bertha Ingle
Gibsonville, N.C.

"Bing"

"Neither alarmed nor self-possessed, but between this mood and that."

The gods were good to us when they allowed "Bing" to join us from Elam College, and to share the joys and trials of our struggle toward the coveted R.N. Although handicapped several times by illness, she has never once given up. Quiet and demure as she is, there is a tell-tale twinkle in her eye, indicating her keen sense of humor. With abilities such as she possesses, she is bound to win success, and when she leaves us she will take with her our best wishes for future happiness.

Esther Neisler Kerr
North Wilkesboro, N.C.

"Kerr"

I. D. C.

"Knowledge is the mother of understanding."
The Old North State certainly did herself proud when she sent Esther to the Training School. She has been here three years, and during that time she has demonstrated a grand combination of good ability, good maturedness, good sympathy, and good friendliness. Her classmates have surely learned to love her and trust her in every way, for she is certainly a friend of all. Nothing in her work is too small or too large for this young lady to put her whole soul into, consequently she is the kind of nurse that will be an honor to her school and to herself. Oh! that we had the style and ability of Gray, that we might write a true eulogy of her, but, alas! we haven't. So please be content with the poor attempt made and know that she is the kind of person we are all happy to count among our friends.
Margaret Montgomery
LEXINGTON, VA.
"Monty"
Chaplain, 23-'24.
"A merry heart doeth good like medicine."

Look into "Monty's" happy, smiling face and you forget you ever had a trouble! If help is ever needed she is right there and ready to lend a hand. We do not believe the subject "Man" has ever entered her head; if it has she has kept the fact closely and securely locked within her woman's heart. "Monty" has a good reputation and a character of which anyone might well be proud. She has won favor and good will from us all. We wish you Godspeed, "Monty," and happiness in all your undertakings.

Seniors

Emily Mancos
DISPUTANTA, VA.
"Cus"
I. D. C.
"My friends have come to me unsought."

Behold! a mystery! "Cus" is so reserved and aloof that it takes one ages to discover the real gold which lies beneath her armor. She is indeed a problem, but one well worth the solving. "Cus" is a rare, interesting type; full of rare wit which might at first be interpreted as sarcasm. You might not think it, but "Cus" loves a good time as well as anyone; although she spends much of her time studying, thereby drawing most of the high grades for the class. Here's good luck to you, "Cus," forever.
Margaret Moehlman
Conover, N. C.

“Mol”

“In simple manners all thy secret lies,
Be kind and virtuous, then you'll be blest and wise.”

“Mol” joined us in our intermediate year, having spent one year at Highland Hospital. She has endeared herself to us all by her sunny disposition and ready smile. “Mol” has proven a conscientious student and a trustworthy friend. She stands among the first in our class in many, many ways and there are wonderful opportunities awaiting her. She has everything which should make her Alma Mater and her friends proud, and we predict she will do honor and credit to the profession to which she has decided to dedicate her life.

Lilias Skipwith
Clarksville, Va.

“Skip”
President, ’25-’26; I. D. C.

“Too fair, too good for human nature’s daily food.”
“President Skip” is the pet of the Class of ’26. She skips through life as happy as a lark, but never fails to pause to offer a good word for everyone. “Skip” is noted for her remarkable disposition and even temperament. She has scores of friends in both sexes, because “the way to have a friend is to be one,” and she is truly loyal to all, thus winning confidence from all sides. We do not know just what “Skip” is planning to do with her future, but, “Skip,” wherever you may go and whatever you may do, remember the Class of ’26 will not forget you.
Frances Cornelia Thompson
High Point, N. C.
"Marasmus"
I. D. C.
"Trouble sits lightly on her shoulders."

"A smile for all, a greeting glad, an amiable jolly way she had." To North Carolina we are indebted for this slender ray of sunshine. "Marasmus" is our witty classmate. Her good humor and ready wit have invariably kept Memorial from needing a new "Green Carpet." These qualities have led her through the valley of Patients, Doctors, Instructors, Supervisors and Sweethearts. They have brought her to the goal which many strive for but few attain. Though she be light-hearted, optimistic, and gay, she never neglects her duties for frivolous things; she does her work in a superior manner and is never found shirking. She is both capable and worthy, and as a friend is faithful and true. In pursuing her work as an R.N., we wish her great success.

Seniors

Birdie Pierce Walker
High Point, N. C.
"Birdie"
"Far may we search before we find
A heart so noble and so kind."

M. C. Y. has never sent out a better nurse than "Birdie." The work she has done as a student, both in practice and theory, has left her with plenty of time to spare, and this time she has spent in writing for "Skull and Bones" and keeping the girls interested in the Y. W. C. A. Birdie is, as a rule, quiet and shy, but one often catches a merry twinkle in her brown eyes. She is faithful in her work, loyal to Billie, and to all her friends, who love her good qualities. We shall miss her, but her influence will linger long in the hearts of her classmates. As our class disperses, she carries with her our sincerest wishes for success.

JUNIOR NURSES
History of Class of '27

History is inevitable. Everything has a history, either good or bad. Every class or organization has a history. How about the history of the Class of ’27? September 1st, 1924, marked the beginning of a most noted history in the life of our Training School. Eleven noble-hearted, but fear thrilled maidens, donned their ill-fitting uniform and reported on duty under the guidance of worthy instructors and were soon put to work in earnest. We were first introduced to the Halls of Memorial and then to the numberless rooms of the Old Virginia Hospital. To verify this, recall the shortage in “hand-lotion” in the hospital cabinets. We were eager students and soon quite a few transformations and changes had taken place in our minds due to the skillful, steady and earnest instruction received at the hands of our most earnest instructors. The old statement, “ignorance is bliss,” soon lost all significance in our youthful lives. With tears and sighs we yearned for the old care-free life but something whispered, “Hold on.” As the days came and passed there were a few additions to our group, and heavy losses. A new one today, a loved one leaving tomorrow. But the truest, sturdiest and most earnest ones stayed on, giving the best that was in them to Memorial, her authorities and her patients. The day came when we were no longer probes at everyone’s command. With light hearts we donned our “caps and bibs” happy as Queens in May. We plunged into our work with new zeal, hope and self confidence, endeavoring to bring back health and strength to the bodies, and smiles of happiness to the faces of less fortunate beings. Since then, nine new members have been heartily welcomed to our ranks, but of course a few have dropped in the race. We are giving the best that we have to our Alma Mater and will ever be loyal and true. Therefore we expect the best from her. We are fifteen strong and regular “live wires.” You shall hear more from us later.

ATHLETICS
Athletics at M. C. V.

ATHLETICS at the Medical College of Virginia, though still young in the number of years since its reorganization, shows marked improvement in strength and popularity. This year the Athletic Association under the continued guidance of our Graduate Manager, Dr. Wm. H. Parker, again opened activities with the Intermural Basketball League. Each year many lettermen from other colleges are matriculating in the several schools. It is the purpose of this league to bring out this new material and to stimulate all the interest possible in the coming Varsity basketball season. Each class in the three schools was represented, and represented well as evidenced by the many close games. At the end of the league three teams were tied, but it remained for the lowly Freshman Medicos to again carry away the cup.

The Inter-mural League brought out two important facts. First, that it was an excellent means for many of our students to obtain a great deal of the much needed, and often overlooked exercise and diversion from their studies. This factor alone should be stimulus enough for its continuance. Secondly, it brought and developed new material for the varsity. This factor was very much in evidence during our early games.

Varsity basketball began during the first week of December. About twenty-five candidates reported to Coach Horace Hicks for the first practice. From this number a varsity and junior-varsity squad was selected. A fast and well balanced team soon resulted from each squad. The varsity, playing such teams as the University of Richmond, William and Mary, Lynchburg College, Randolph-Macon, Bridgewater College, Union Theological Seminary, The Blues, and a few strong local teams, won over half of their games. The junior-varsity, playing many prep schools, church teams and the like, lost only two of its scheduled games.

A league composed of the three professional schools of the city, namely, the T. C. Williams School of Law, Union Theological Seminary, and The Medical College, was organized. Many former star college athletes were to be found on each team, resulting in hard fought and spirited games. The Medicos were leading the league at the time of this writing.

Not to be outdone by the rest of the college, the School of Nursing organized and entered a team in the female basketball league of the City of Richmond. Though the city championship was not captured, many victories were turned in. We are justly proud of the showing made by Coach Mongillo and his proteges. Needless to say, we will be backing them more strongly than ever in their future efforts.

In baseball last spring, a fairly good team was whipped together by Coach Hicks. He was assisted in his efforts by our old friend and ally, Jonah Larrick, who holds down most efficiently the job as assistant to Dr. Parker. Only a few games were won by the team, but considering the long hours in school, the lack of a more accessible field upon which to play, a very creditable showing was made. This year, with more time for practice, and much new material to draw from, promises to be the brightest seasons in the history of the school. Student-manager Joyce has worked out a well balanced schedule for the year and much may be expected in the way of victories.

Tennis is our third sport and promises to be a very bright season as well. Our new courts which were recently built upon the site of the old Retreat for the Sick hospital will soon be reconditioned. Plans are already on foot for a school tournament for the selection of a varsity team. A definite schedule with the various Colleges have not as yet been completed. Much credit for the development of this sport goes to Student-manager Allen Lloyd, and the Association is very grateful to Superintendent Morlok, of the Hospital Division, in helping us with our tennis courts.

With the definite establishment of athletics at the Medical College, the old cry of being too busy with studies, that there is not room for athletics in a professional school, seems to have banished forever. Indeed they have become so popular with the Student Body that the demand for compulsory physical training has become more stronger than ever. Many of us realize that we need exercise, but only a very few of us arrange for it in our daily schedule. Some of us because of the two, classwork only is compulsory. Others of us because we have not yet felt the effects of our negligence. However, as those of us leave school with our health shattered and broken because of our close studies, many are going to join us in our wish that physical training had been compulsory, too.

One of the finest steps toward aiding, not only the course of athletics, but that of each individual student, would be the adoption by the Medical College of required gym work. A gymnasium of our own then is one of the crying needs of the student body.

ORGANIZATIONS
History of the Most Noble and Mystic Order of Disciples of Imhotep

ANY indeed will be surprised to learn that we have in our college an organized branch of this famous, mysterious and ancient Egyptian Order, being this the first occasion in which any knowledge of its existence in our midst has been divulged. This secrecy has been due to very occult reasons which only the worthy initiates in our mysteries may know. But so as to partly satisfy the natural curiosity of the profane, a special permission has been obtained from our benevolent High Priest, Son of Ra, to say something about the origin and object of this Most Ancient Order, and of how it came to be established at the Medical College of Virginia . . . So, lend us your auditory apparatus, all ye faithful and candid! And listen to this legend from the distant Land of the Wahoo Bird and the Omnipotent Bull:

During recent excavations conducted near Memphis, a sealed, well preserved papyrus was disinterred. It was written in pure hieroglyphics of the most antiquated characters: those used during the reign of the early Pharaohs. Famous Egyptologists from all over the world endeavored to decipher its hidden meaning, and after many vain researches and arduous, prolonged labor, with the aid of the Rosetta discovered by Napoleon’s army in 1799, they succeeded in translating the mysterious and precious document. It appeared to be nothing less than the Constitution of the Most Noble and Mystic Order of Disciples of I-m-hotep, founded in the brilliant period of the XIIth Dynasty! History tells us that the magnificent King who appears to be the founder of this organization (although as to his true name there is disparity of opinion among scholars), himself was a scholar, and that he is the author of one of the earliest Treatises on Medicine ever written. He was inspired in his work by the Great, the Magnificent I-m-hotep, Son of Phthah and Sehkmet, princely scholar who ruled during the Fourth Dynasty, and later became the Egyptian God of Medicine, the patron of physicians, the Egyptian Aesculapius. This later Pharaoh, then, of the Twelfth Dynasty, together with a few zealous workers in this field of science, especially those who were soon to be invested with the attributes of Healers, and the Pastophori or Priests who guarded and learned the Books on Medicine, organized the first class of Disciples of Imhotep of which there is record, in order to promote scientific interest, unexcelled scholarship, good will and noble ideals among the practitioners of Medicine.

Of how the organization came to America we have but little data. But the fact is that by a most happy chance, and a chain of circumstances which will have to be omitted, much to our regret, for lack of space, an inscription which closely resembled that on the Papyrus found at Memphis, was discovered in a secret subterranean chamber, only known to the initiates, in the basement of the Old Egyptian Building which forms a part of our College. This apparent puzzle was minutely and exhaustively studied by most eminent archaeologists and they came to the conclusion that a branch of the Ancient Order had once existed in our Alma Mater. All these investigations were conducted under the strictest secrecy, so that not even the college officials were aware before now, of the fact that in some remote past our students were actually connected, by a mysterious link, with students in the Land of the Sacred Baboon. This accounts for the existence of our beautiful old Egyptian building . . .

A few enthusiasts who are interested in archaeology and who find delight in the perusal of old, dusty manuscripts and in the study of obsolete facts, places and things, happily became acquainted with this wonderful discovery, and decided to revive this venerable, archaic and esteemed Order, to which only members of the Graduating Class in Medicine can belong, according to the provisions set forth in the traditional Papyrus.

We sincerely hope that this organization will greatly flourish in years to come, and that the Senior Medical Classes which will tread in our footsteps will take advantage of this precious heritage. May their worthy members become faithful Disciples of the Great Imhotep, to be inspired by the high principles for which He stood, and which should guide the Sacred Priests of the Noble Science and Art of Healing.

Staff Poem

The world is old, but likes to laugh,
New puns are hard to find.
The greatest Editorial Staff
Can't tickle every mind.
So if you read some old-time joke,
Patched up in modern guise,
Don't fuss and say the thing's a fake,
Just laugh—don't be too wise.

* * *

Dr. Miller: "What is the cause of whooping cough?"
Beach: "Bacillus Pertussis."
Dr. Miller: "Who first isolated this bacillus?"
Beach: "Pertussis himself."

* * *

Dr. Baughman: "How does the bony pelvis of the female differ from that of the male?"
Lew Angle: "It's a lot prettier, doctor."

Teacher: "Jimmy Tucker, write a poem of two lines."

I put it up to you—
Suppose your eye-teeth all went blind,
How could you see to chew?

* * *

Townsend (to Dispensary patient): "Madame, you need a little sun and air."
Patient: "But doctor, I'm not married."

* * *

Dr. Johns (writes in Order Book): "S. S. enema. High and Gently."
Miss Brewbaker (writes on chart): "Given, Sweet and Low."

Two thin shoes make one cold; two colds, one attack of bronchitis; two attacks of bronchitis, one mahogany coffin.
The Nutcracker

AN INTERN'S "If"

If you can get to work when all about you
Are all at sea and don't know what to do;
Stand by your diagnosis though they doubt you,
Yet, being wrong, can change opinion too;
If you can take the "buck" they pass you without fussing,
Yet when you're House-Man never do the same,
Or being "cussed out," don't give way to "cussing,"
And yet don't look too fierce, nor yet too tame;

If you can think and end your thought in action,
If you can act, but think and plan it, too,
If you can meet with either Death or Satisfaction,
Nor let one crush, the other exalt you;
If you can miss the night's sleep yet be cheerful,
As you go about the next day at your work,
If the unexpected finds you are unfearful,
And the drudge and "scut-work" find you do not shirk;

If you can hear an old man's talk and be condoling,
Yet know the thoughts and fancies of the child,
If the mother's fears can find you well consoling,
And people's scorn and anger leave you mild;
If you can shoulder blame and not relay it,
If you can see them turn your plans all wrong,
And, being disappointed, don't display it,
Yet make your comment where it does belong;

If you can get along with Nurse and "Super,"
And like them all, yet love but only one,
If you can do some work that keeps you waiting,
And withhold your judgment till your work be done;
If you can let your work advance another,
If you can eat an intern's meal without complaint,
You'll be a real good intern, brother,
In fact, you know, you'll almost be a saint.

B. Ashe, N. Y.

Phil: "Our canary. The cat extinted him this morning."
The Nutcracker

There may be anything but music in the air when the interne who has worked four hours to approximate the ends of a cut tendon is reminded by the nurse that it's the Lost Chord for sure.

   Dr. Hutchinson: "It is impossible for you to die."
   Patient: "Why are you so certain?"
   Doctor: "Statistics say that only one in a hundred with your disease recovers. I have had ninety-nine cases, and as they all died you must recover."

Smiley: "Doctor, mark me present, please."
   Doctor: "Who is me?"
   Smiley: "Don't you know me?"

Min: “Why do men wear loud ties?”
Bill: “So they won’t feel lonesome when they are alone.”

“What’s that on your nose.”
“Corn.”
“Corn? What caused it?”
“Corn.”
“Well, I heard you the first time, but what caused it?”
“Fruit jar.”
“Oh-h-h, I see.”

Reveille

Oh, it's nice to get up in the morning,
When the sun begins to shine,
At three or four or five o'clock,
In the good old summer time;
But when the air is murky,
And it's chilly overhead,
It's nice to get up in the morning,
But it's nicer to lie in bed.

Reggie (nervously): "Miss H. there has been something trembling on my lips for months and months."
Miss H.: "Yes, so I see. Why don't you shave it off?"
He: "Can I kiss you?"
She: "I don't know. Most fellows have been able to."

* * *

First Co-ed: "I surely would like to have a big brother up here."
Second Co-ed: "Shucks! I don't want a big brother. What I want is a big papa."

Nursery Rhymes

Tom, Tom, the Piper's son,
Stole a quart and went on a bum;
I could forgive the drunken sot
If it had not been my quart he got.

Little Bo Peep has lost much sleep
And doesn't know where to find it,
The poor little lass could sleep in class,
If only the profs didn't mind it.

Humpty Dumpty sat by a still,
Humpty Dumpty sure got his fill,
But all the wise doctors, and all the wise men,
Couldn't bring Humpty's sight back again.

There was a young man from Cologne,
Who collapsed with a terrible groan,
When they turned on the light,
He found in a fright,
That he was necking the aged chaperon.

Memories of Preventive Medicine

Time: 2-8-26. 12-1 o'clock.
Place: Room 503.
Cast: Members of the Senior Class in Medicine.

There are more missed cases of diseases like diphtheria, typhoid, etc., than those actually known about.

Dr. Knott and Dr. Killius make fruitless attempt to open windows, even after Doc Killius scorches his shoe sole on the radiator.

Campbell and Jones grab hats and made exit promptly 12:24.

One disease may break down barrier and allow others to enter.

Magly and Gordon talking on styles and topics of the day—while Cliff holds her parasol. Bedsaul begs him to open it.

Many typical cases of disease cause puzzling trouble.

It is hard to recognize exact percentage of people who are carriers of disease.

Lee unable to sleep because of surrounding collegiate noise.

Best to locate carriers to control disease.

Class adjourns with applause because we didn't vote for this class no-how.

YOUR success in dentistry is dependent not only upon the professional ability which you have attained the past four years but upon correct business methods and modern equipment.

Realizing this we have worked unceasingly to collect and distribute data which will assist the beginner in the practice of dentistry, as well as to manufacture the best and most up-to-date dental equipment modern science and trained minds can produce.

We only ask that you take advantage of the assistance we offer you.

The Finest Dental Cabinet Ever Built

Perhaps no one in Europe in 1492 had the vision to foresee the result of civilized man's first view of the little island of Santo Domingo, and it was little realized in modern times how important was the discovery that Dental Cabinet Medicine Chests could be made of a solid piece of white glass.

Such a decided improvement deserved a cabinet design that would be more beautiful than anything hitherto, and with drawers that cannot stick or swell, because they are made of steel, with wood fronts. New design glass trays is a late improvement.

American Cabinet No. 120 since its introduction three years ago, has had a sales record that is remarkable.

Our beautiful new three color catalog is just out. Ask for it.

WESTBROOK SANATORIUM
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

The magnificent suburban home of the late Major Ginter, by alterations and extensive additions, has been transformed into a private institution for the treatment of nervous diseases, mild mental cases and select alcohol and drug habitues.

The grounds are ample, quiet is assured, and a new building for men makes easy separation of sexes. A number of cottages make possible satisfactory and congenial grouping.

Rooms single or en suite, with or without private bath. Hot water heat, electric lights, artesian water. Bowling, tennis, croquet, billiards and a gymnasium afford recreation. Electrical and Hydrotherapy equipment. Nurses and attendants trained for this special work. Four physicians reside in the Sanatorium and devote their entire time to the patients.

PRIVATE ROOMS

Private rooms with accommodations for one, two, three and four patients have been provided. The charges for general board and care are from $3.75 to $6.00 per day, which includes general nursing care, the services of the Resident Physician and the House Staff, bacteriological and pathological examinations, medicines and prescriptions compounded in the Hospital Pharmacy and surgical dressings.

Other charges for ambulance service, the use of delivery and operating rooms and X-Ray examinations are reasonable.

All reputable physicians and surgeons in Richmond have full privileges (including the use of the operating rooms) to treat patients occupying private rooms in any of the hospitals.

PUBLIC WARDS

The charge for patients in the Public Wards is $3.00 per day, which is in full for all examinations and service necessary, there being no extra charges.

The privilege to treat patients occupying beds in the Public Wards is restricted to a group of physicians and surgeons appointed by the Executive Committee of the Board of Visitors, selected from the Faculty of the School of Medicine of the College. Physicians and surgeons do not receive a fee or any emolument for services rendered by them toward patients.

Mellin's Food—A Milk Modifier

It has long been recognized that the stated purpose of Mellin's Food is supported by a foundation in keeping with the essential problem of the artificial feeding of infants.

Through the acceptance of the principles of Mellin's Food and the ever-extending use of Mellin's Food as a milk modifier, a method of procedure has gradually developed to finally evolve into

An Established System of Infant Feeding.

The simplicity of this system, and the eminently satisfactory results from its application in the feeding of both well and sick babies, are matters worthy of serious consideration.

This system is set forth clearly and concisely in "Formulas for Infant Feeding". A copy of this book, bound in leather, will be sent to physicians upon request.

Remove the Antiphlogistine dressing at the end of twelve hours and examine it. The center will be wet provided there is an inflamed area beneath it; an outer zone merging into the center will be moist, and the part which has covered healthy tissue will be comparatively dry. In the outer zone the blood is flowing freely and uninterruptedly, through the underlying vessels, forming a current directed away from Antiphlogistine. Its liquid contents therefore follow the direction of least resistance and enter the circulation through the physical process of osmosis. In the center zone there is static, no current tending to overcome Antiphlogistine’s hygroscopic property. The point of least resistance for the liquid exudate is therefore in the direction of Antiphlogistine—exosmosis is going on in the zone, hence the excess of moisture.
